Area Looks To Share In Prosperity

District Industry, Business Prospects Seen Good For '64

Along with the rest of the nation, the East Liverpool district looks forward to 1964 as a time of growing prosperity for both retail business and industry.

Advancing on a surprising impetus that developed late in 1963, the economy is expected to move ahead steadily in the new year, according to the forecasts of both private and government economists.

Caution marked the forecasts when 1963 dawned. The economists were unwilling to predict either a boom or a bust and most said the business and industrial activity would level off onto a plateau.

Forecasts Optimistic

But all the forecasts for 1964 are optimistic. They vary only in the degree of growth forecast.

In the East Liverpool area, noted for the absence of huge peaks or deep valleys in the economy, the change probably will not be so radical as in some of the boom areas of the nation.

But there were many healthy signs in the local economy as 1963 drew to a close. And if the new year brings even higher levels in business and industry nationally, East Liverpool can expect to share in the bounty in its own conservative, dependable way.

In late December, the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters said the employment picture for its members was much brighter for the new year. It pointed to increased production in area dinnerware plants, as well as in chinaware and hotel and restaurant ware factories.

Contrasted To Gloom

Contrast that with the picture just a year ago when closing of the Edwin M. Knowles China Co. threw gloom over the outlook of union and management alike.

The IBOP said the picture is "generally bright" in dinnerware plants throughout the region — in East Palestine and Sebring as well as in East Liverpool.

And 1963 was a bright year for the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., which retains its spot as one of the major employers of East Liverpool area residents.

In early November, Crucible announced plans for a $10 million expansion program to step up its flat roll facilities at the Midland Works. The announcement came on the heels of an earlier report showing the company had the best third quarter in eight years, with improve-

Public Works Bill Signed By Johnson

Johnson said that although he was signing the bill, he did not approve of a provision that bars the Panama Canal Co. from disposing of any real property without advance approval from congressional committees.

The President, who had considered vetoing the measure, said "four attorneys general of the United States have held provisions of this nature unconstitutional."

Because of this, he said, he would interpret the controversial proviso as a congressional request for information about possible real estate transactions involving the canal company.

Prayers, Revelry Usher In New Year

1964 Arrives On Tide Of Hope

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Writer

And so, another year has arrived—borne on a tide of prayers for peace and an end to the tension and travail which plagued the globe during the twelve months gone by.

Many world leaders joined in the hopes for better times as 1964 was ushered in with both solemn church service and citizen revelry.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said there has been a definite relaxation of international tension.

He termed this the distinguishing feature of this time—that the forces of peace are becoming superior to the forces of war.

Of late Khrushchev often has said nuclear war would result only in global destruction.

On the international scene, Khrushchev will be dealing with three new key world figures during the coming months.

They are President Johnson, who acceded to the office upon the assassination of President John F. Kennedy; Britain's new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and West Germany's new chancellor, Ludwig Erhard.

Erhard has just completed a meeting with Johnson in Texas. In a New Year's telegram to the President he expressed hope that 1964 "will bring us closer to our mutual goals."

"If we stand together and do our best for the unity of the Atlantic community, then we need not worry about peace and freedom," Erhard said.

Norwegian Premier Enar Gerhardsen, addressing his people by radio, said President Johnson "wants lessening of tensions and disarmament under international control."

"He also wants a peaceful world where the resources are used rationally to the benefit of the whole human race," Gerhardsen said.

There were somber notes too.

French President Charles de Gaulle said in a yearend address that France would press ahead with development of a hydrogen bomb.

He said France, which already possesses atomic bombs, required the hydrogen weapon to meet "the threat of aggression" and to assure the nation's independence.

In the Soviet Union it was a time for gift exchanging, the traditional custom there. Moscow stores were thronged on New Year's Eve. The stores seemed fairly well-stocked, but people seemed to feel that shortages were imminent. Restaurants were booked solid.

Berlin's celebration was the happiest since the Communists split the city with a wall between East and West. Temporary opening of the barrier made it possible for many thousands of West Berliners to join relatives in the Soviet sector.

The relaxation began Dec. 20 and is due to end Jan. 5. Both the Communists and the West Berlin government have voiced willingness to discuss an extension after Jan. 5.

In the United States, citizens thronged churches for "watch night" services. Others celebrated in night clubs, restaurants and private homes.

In Boston, the Sheraton-Plaza hotel called off its New Year's party out of respect for the late President Kennedy.

It was a charity ball in Grand Central Terminal's main concourse at prices ranging from $25 to $100. Tables were set up for 3,000 persons.

DeGaulle To Press 'H' Bomb

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle emphasized in a yearend speech to the nation Tuesday night that France will continue developing its own hydrogen bomb.

He called the program a contribution to maintenance of peace.

"We must, first of all, go ahead with the effort which will provide us with thermonuclear armament, the only thing whose power will be adequate to the threat of an aggression and the only thing, in consequence, which will permit us independence," he said in an address carried by radio and television throughout the country.

Speaking with pride, the towering general said France is taking back into its own hands the destiny it lost in 1940, and that it had gained peace and political stability in the last 12 months.

For 1964, he said, France's goals are European unity, aiding the progress of underdeveloped countries and contributing to maintaining world peace.

He said European unity must be achieved "so that Western Europe can have a truly concentrated political, economic and strategic understanding with America."

On one hand, De Gaulle defended his decision last January to keep Britain out of the Common Market. If Britain had been allowed in, he said, the Common Market would have been dissolved "by the admission of a new member which could not go by the rules."

On the other, he voiced a hope that the Communist regimes of the Soviet Union and its Communist bloc Allies in Europe will evolve a policy closer to the West. Pointedly, he did not mention Red China, whose premier Chou En-lai has been inviting French recognition of Peking on an African tour.

De Gaulle told his audience that following the end of the Algerian War, 1963 was a year of peace.

"It is a fact," he said, "that between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31 we did not have to fire a single shot, something that has not happened for a quarter of a century."

797 Electors Cut Off Rolls To Get Notice

Disqualified Voters Given Until Feb. 3 For Reinstatement

The names of 797 were lopped off the registration list in the annual yearend check made by the board's staff.

Law requires the board to review the list at the end of each year, eliminating the names of those who have not voted at least once in the preceding biennium or taken some other action to keep their cards in an active status.

Postcard notices were to go into the mail for those whose registration was canceled. The double - fold postcard form includes a postage - paid section which the elector may sign and return by Feb. 3, reinstating his registration.

Electors who do not reinstate their registration by mail before the deadline will be required to make a trip to the board's office to qualify again for the primaries in May.

East Liverpool had 8,746 electors qualified for the general election in November. The new registration total "is about as low as I can recall," O'Hanlon said.

In the new registration list, the Second Ward continues its status as the city's largest, with 2,716 voters. The First Ward has 1,800; the third, 1,476, and the Fourth, 1,957.

First Ward: A, 29 dropped, 257 remaining; B, 27 and 306; C, 21 and 172; D, 33 and 305; E, 28 and 273; F, 19 and 147; G, 13 and 226, and H, 16 and 114.

Second Ward: A, 23 and 257; B, 28 and 361; C, 21 and 301; D, 35 and 251; E, 40 and 368; F, 14 and 216; G, 24 and 210; H, 32 and 225; I, 16 and 252, and J, 10 and 275.

Gloria Williams, 10, daughter of Homer Williams, 945 Pennsylvania Ave., was treated at City Hospital Tuesday night for a cut of the forehead suffered in a sledding mishap.

POWER POLE SHEARED. Phillip A. Pelley, 420 Grant St., Newell, escaped with only a laceration of the ear and contusion of the forehead when his station wagon plunged off the East Liverpool-Midland Rd. in Ohioville, sheared a power pole and came to rest only a foot or so from the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks Tuesday night at 5:20. The broken pole with 440-volt lines of the Duquesne Light Co. dropped several feet but without interruption of power. Railroad linemen shut off the power until the car was removed. A Pennsy freight train, with a flat car shown here carrying a girder, passed the spot slowly but did not touch the 1960 vehicle. Pelley told Police Chief Bernard Zlatovich of Ohioville that he started to pass a line of traffic but was forced off the road and over the embankment by an approaching car without lights.

Single Show At End

Ware Firms To Exhibit At Chicago, Atlantic City

Time and changing ways of merchandising apparently are about to bring on the death of one of the oldest traditions of the East Liverpool area dinnerware industry — the annual mid-winter show at which major manufacturers converged under one roof in a metropolitan center to show off their new lines to buyers.

For the first time in 84 years, there will be no single major January show attracting all the district's big plants.

ONE FIRM expects to introduce its new lines in shows in both Chicago and Atlantic City. Two more will be represented only at the Chicago show and the fourth already has ruled out the Atlantic City show and is uncertain whether it will take its ware to Chicago.

For 70 years, the major mid-winter market of the dinnerware industry was the traditional Pittsburgh Pottery & Glass Show. It was sponsored by the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers, an organization that included all the district plants.

The dinnerware plants put their best foot forward at the Pittsburgh show, seeking to book orders from wholesale buyers. The show was held for many years at the William Penn Hotel, later the Penn-Sheraton.

But the Pittsburgh show was held for the last time in 1958. For the next four years, the East Liverpool potters and most other major producers exhibited at the then-new Atlantic City China & Glass Show.

THE NEXT major switch came in January 1963, when the district manufacturers helped organize the National Glass & China Show of 1963, held at Chicago.

But the first of the new Chicago shows also was the last. It will not be held this year.

School Hours To Be Altered For Hancock

Classroom hours that will be in effect Thursday when Hancock County pupils return to school after the holiday vacation were announced today by Charles McKinney, assistant county superintendent.

With two new high schools opening and some buildings closing because of consolidation, new classroom hours and bus schedules have been made necessary, McKinney pointed out.

The new bus schedules to be followed by pupils in the Chester, Newell and New Cumberland areas are listed in today's classified section of the Review.

Classes will begin at 8 a.m. and be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. at both Oak Glen and Weir High Schools, new plants opening Thursday for sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Oak Glen High School pupils were reminded that they must take lunches each day, because the cafeteria will not be open for several weeks or longer,

Increase Of $4,224 Shown Over 1962's $64,193 Receipts

For the second consecutive year, East Liverpool parking meters set a new income record in 1963, producing $68,417.

The income is up $4,224 from the previous record of $64,193 set in 1962.

The final figure on 1963 receipts became available late Tuesday afternoon. The last collection of coins from the meters was made yesterday forenoon.

The Potters Bank & Trust Co., which counts the funds under contract with the city, assigned additional help to the task in order that the figure could be included in last year's business.

Yesterday's collection produced $2,276. Two previous December collections from the meters brought in $3,774, making the overall total for the month $6,051.

Last year was the sixth full year of strict "Meter Maid" enforcement of parking regulations.

The women meter attendants first were hired in July 1957, part of a revamping of the parking system which also included doubling fees in the heart of the business district and opening of the first city-operated off - street lot.

The metered parking system has grown gradually over the years since the first installation of 475 of the devices in 1947.

Three more off - street lots were opened in late 1959, giving another boost to meter revenue. In 1962, about 100 more metered spaces were added.

A new municipal lot was opened in mid-1962 on the site of the former Ceramic Theater, adding about 40 spaces. About six months later, meters were placed in 55 spots in former "no parking" areas on the west side of Market St. and the east side of Dresden Ave.

The spaces became available

Sedan Of Youth, 16, Damaged In Collision

The entire front of a 1962 sedan operated by a 16-year-old city youth was damaged in a crash Tuesday afternoon at Walnut and E. 5th Sts., police reported.

Joseph F. Parsons, 311 W. 3rd St., told police he descended the E. 5th St. grade and made a left turn onto Walnut St. when the auto hit a pile of dirt at the corner which threw his car into a stopped 1960 sedan operated by Ralph L. Widger, 41, of 105 Thompson Ave.

County Coroner Rules

City Boy's Hanging Seen Mishap Playing TV Skit

A 14-year-old boy found hanged in the basement of his family's home late Monday afternoon died of accidental strangulation while simulating parachute jumps he had seen on a television show, Dr. William A. Kolozsi of Salem, county coroner, ruled Tuesday afternoon after an exhaustive investigation.

Dr. Kolozsi issued the ruling in the death of Peter Jeffrey Pusey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pusey, 400 W. 5th St., who was found hanged to an overhead gas pipe by a belt and harness he wore as a school crossing guard.

The Salem physician said boy had rigged the belt like a parachute harness, attaching it to the gas pipe overhead, then stepped off a low block of wood in re-anacting scenes he had watched on the TV show, "Sky Divers."

The evidence showed that the boy had made the simulated "parachute leaps" repeatedly before the harness slipped and caught him about the neck, resulting in accidental asphyxiation, Dr. Kolozsi said.

The investigation disclosed that the boy, in leaping or stepping off the low block of wood with the harness attached to the overhead pipe, achieved the same sudden, jolting stop as a chutist when he pulls the rip cord, the physician said.

He said the evidence indicated the play-acting had gone on for some time before the harness slipped and strangled the boy.

The safety patrol belt had been around his waist or shoulders," he said. "This one time, it slipped up and acted like a noose."

An exhaustive investigation "ruled out any motive of suicide" in the boy's death, the coroner said.

His formal ruling said the death was caused by "asphyxiation from accidental hanging while play - acting parachute leaps."

The coroner commended the police department for its aid in the investigation.

The police department was most helpful and co-operative and its assistance is appreciated," the physician said.

Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Snow Likely Over Holiday

Moderate Traffic Reported For Area

The New Year's holiday may see light snow, although temperatures were expected to moderate considerably.

The Ohio weatherman said snow was to develop in the east portion of the state early today and continue through tonight. And the right snowing range was forecast temperaturewise — a high of 20 to 28 degrees in contrast to the zero and below recorded Tuesday morning. The downtown had a relatively mild 26 about 6 last night.

Meanwhile, Tri-State district police agencies reported moderate to light traffic on the holiday eve with only one minor mishap in Columbiana County although there were a couple in East Liverpool and Wellsville, without injury, and another in the Midland area.

The traffic flow was described as moderate — "similar to a Saturday" — by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon. Only one mishap, a minor collision near Rock Camp on Route 30, was reported.

Hancock County Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny planned to deploy extra deputies and cruisers Tuesday night in a vigil for careless drivers celebrating the holiday.

The income is up $4,224 from the previous record of $64,193 set in 1962.

The final figure on 1963 receipts became available late Tuesday afternoon. The last collection of coins from the meters was made yesterday forenoon.

The Potters Bank & Trust Co., which counts the funds under contract with the city, assigned additional help to the task in order that the figure could be included in last year's business.

Yesterday's collection produced $2,276. Two previous December collections from the meters brought in $3,774, making the overall total for the month $6,051.

Last year was the sixth full year of strict "Meter Maid" enforcement of parking regulations.

The women meter attendants first were hired in July 1957, part of a revamping of the parking system which also included doubling fees in the heart of the business district and opening of the first city-operated off - street lot.

The metered parking system has grown gradually over the years since the first installation of 475 of the devices in 1947.

Three more off - street lots were opened in late 1959, giving another boost to meter revenue. In 1962, about 100 more metered spaces were added.

A new municipal lot was opened in mid-1962 on the site of the former Ceramic Theater, adding about 40 spaces. About six months later, meters were placed in 55 spots in former "no parking" areas on the west side of Market St. and the east side of Dresden Ave.

The spaces became available

Sedan Of Youth, 16, Damaged In Collision

The entire front of a 1962 sedan operated by a 16-year-old city youth was damaged in a crash Tuesday afternoon at Walnut and E. 5th Sts., police reported.

Joseph F. Parsons, 311 W. 3rd St., told police he descended the E. 5th St. grade and made a left turn onto Walnut St. when the auto hit a pile of dirt at the corner which threw his car into a stopped 1960 sedan operated by Ralph L. Widger, 41, of 105 Thompson Ave.

DeGaulle To Press 'H' Bomb

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle emphasized in a yearend speech to the nation Tuesday night that France will continue developing its own hydrogen bomb.

He called the program a contribution to maintenance of peace.

"We must, first of all, go ahead with the effort which will provide us with thermonuclear armament, the only thing whose power will be adequate to the threat of an aggression and the only thing, in consequence, which will permit us independence," he said in an address carried by radio and television throughout the country.

Speaking with pride, the towering general said France is taking back into its own hands the destiny it lost in 1940, and that it had gained peace and political stability in the last 12 months.

For 1964, he said, France's goals are European unity, aiding the progress of underdeveloped countries and contributing to maintaining world peace.

He said European unity must be achieved "so that Western Europe can have a truly concentrated political, economic and strategic understanding with America."

On one hand, De Gaulle defended his decision last January to keep Britain out of the Common Market. If Britain had been allowed in, he said, the Common Market would have been dissolved "by the admission of a new member which could not go by the rules."

On the other, he voiced a hope that the Communist regimes of the Soviet Union and its Communist bloc Allies in Europe will evolve a policy closer to the West. Pointedly, he did not mention Red China, whose premier Chou En-lai has been inviting French recognition of Peking on an African tour.

De Gaulle told his audience that following the end of the Algerian War, 1963 was a year of peace.

"It is a fact," he said, "that between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31 we did not have to fire a single shot, something that has not happened for a quarter of a century."

County Coroner Rules

City Boy's Hanging Seen Mishap Playing TV Skit

A 14-year-old boy found hanged in the basement of his family's home late Monday afternoon died of accidental strangulation while simulating parachute jumps he had seen on a television show, Dr. William A. Kolozsi of Salem, county coroner, ruled Tuesday afternoon after an exhaustive investigation.

Dr. Kolozsi issued the ruling in the death of Peter Jeffrey Pusey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pusey, 400 W. 5th St., who was found hanged to an overhead gas pipe by a belt and harness he wore as a school crossing guard.

The Salem physician said boy had rigged the belt like a parachute harness, attaching it to the gas pipe overhead, then stepped off a low block of wood in re-anacting scenes he had watched on the TV show, "Sky Divers."

The evidence showed that the boy had made the simulated "parachute leaps" repeatedly before the harness slipped and caught him about the neck, resulting in accidental asphyxiation, Dr. Kolozsi said.

The investigation disclosed that the boy, in leaping or stepping off the low block of wood with the harness attached to the overhead pipe, achieved the same sudden, jolting stop as a chutist when he pulls the rip cord, the physician said.

He said the evidence indicated the play-acting had gone on for some time before the harness slipped and strangled the boy.

The safety patrol belt had been around his waist or shoulders," he said. "This one time, it slipped up and acted like a noose."

An exhaustive investigation "ruled out any motive of suicide" in the boy's death, the coroner said.

His formal ruling said the death was caused by "asphyxiation from accidental hanging while play - acting parachute leaps."

The coroner commended the police department for its aid in the investigation.

Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Snow Likely Over Holiday

Moderate Traffic Reported For Area

The New Year's holiday may see light snow, although temperatures were expected to moderate considerably.

The Ohio weatherman said snow was to develop in the east portion of the state early today and continue through tonight. And the right snowing range was forecast temperaturewise — a high of 20 to 28 degrees in contrast to the zero and below recorded Tuesday morning. The downtown had a relatively mild 26 about 6 last night.

Meanwhile, Tri-State district police agencies reported moderate to light traffic on the holiday eve with only one minor mishap in Columbiana County although there were a couple in East Liverpool and Wellsville, without injury, and another in the Midland area.

The traffic flow was described as moderate — "similar to a Saturday" — by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon. Only one mishap, a minor collision near Rock Camp on Route 30, was reported.

Hancock County Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny planned to deploy extra deputies and cruisers Tuesday night in a vigil for careless drivers celebrating the holiday.

GOP, Democratic Committtees Set Parleys

Political Pace To Quicken Early This Year In Ohio

Members of the Republican State Committee meet here Friday to look over delegate candidates to their national convention July 13 in San Francisco and possibly pick a favorite son to lead them.

Democratic State Committee members convene next Tuesday for similar business and to prepare for a pre-primary convention here Jan. 20. The party will hold its national convention in Atlantic City Aug. 24.

State Chairman Ray C. Bliss will preside at a closed luncheon session of the GOP State Committee in the Neil House.

The 46 - member committee plans to consider selection of 12 at-large delegate candidates to be elected statewide in the May 5 primary.

Other candidates for the 58-member Ohio delegation to the national convention will be selected in congressional districts.

Gov. James A. Rhodes appeared to be the logical choice for favorite son in pre - luncheon speculation although the governor has indicated that he felt another should head the delegation.

Rhodes has a date in Port Clinton for an industrial development meeting about the time of the scheduled state committee session.

A GOP headquarters spokesman expressed doubt that Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater's scheduled declaration of his political intentions Tuesday would have any impact on the Ohio committee.

Because of a two-hour time difference, Goldwater's plans may not become known officially until after the Ohio luncheon.

Dr. N. B. Livingston Jr. of Columbus, chairman of Ohioans for Goldwater, expressed belief that the senator has been in touch with Bliss in regard to the Ohio situation.

"If he announces for President," Dr. Livingston speculated "Sen. Goldwater's Ohio plans probably would depend on how much he feels he could depend on Ohio delegates after the first convention ballot.

"If he is not satisfied, he might feel that—Ohio being one of the three most important states—it would be necessary to run a slate of delegate candidates to get his fair share."

The Democratic State Committee meeting at 1 p. m. in the Neil House next Tuesday will focus on the party's first pre-primary convention to endorse primary election candidates. County chairmen also will attend.

State Chairman William L. Coleman stressed that endorsements would not preclude other candidates from seeking nomination. He described the convention as an effort to field a strong slate of candidates with concerted party backing.

The Democratic National Committee has yet to designate the number of delegates Ohio will have at the party's presidential nominating convention.

For Quiet New Year's

More Of Johnson Kinfolk Gather At Texas Ranch

By FRANCES LEWINE

The President's family—27 in all — had been here for Christmas. Now there was to be a repeat of the festivities, including a turkey dinner, for nine members of Mrs. Johnson's family.

The younger set of the President family — daughters Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16, left to attend New Year's Eve parties and the Cotton Bowl classic, which this year pits the University of Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, against second-ranked Navy.

The girls will be among some 75,000 fans and they'll sit on opposite sides, giving an aura of impartiality from the presidential family.

Although Lynda Bird, a sophomore at the University of Texas, will root for the Longhorns, she will sit on the Navy side of the gridiron. Her fiance, Navy Lt. Bernard Rosenbach from Comfort, Tex., is a Naval Academy graduate.

Hancock Survey Indicates Job Opportunities Off Farm

Opportunities exist in Hancock County for employment in agriculture "off the farm," according to a survey made by the Vocational Educational Department.

Oliver Johnson, county agricultural agent, said there are 130 persons engaged in agricultural work for 29 businesses in the county that are not "on the farm."

Fifty-nine of the employes are grounds maintenance workers, excluding mowers who normally work part-time. Of this group, 22 are employed at golf courses. Waterford Park Race Track employs the largest number of this type, Johnson said.

Purpose of the survey, which was statewide, was to determine the kind of vocational agricultural training that needs to be offered to high school students.

"I'm sure one of the revelations will be the number of people needed to do turf, lawn and flower work. To my knowledge, no instruction or training in these fields are offered in the public schools of the state," Johnson said.

The agent also advised that county residents may purchase packets of "Centennial tomato seeds" from the Agricultural Experiment Station at West Virginia University.

Pughtown Cow Favors Twin Births—5 Times

The prize cow of the A. T. Kinsey farm in Pughtown has given birth to her fifth set of twins, the latest a bull and heifer.

"When this combination happens in cattle, the female is often sterile and is known as a free-martin. That's tough luck for a dairyman," Oliver Johnson, Hancock County farm agent, commented. Most of "Candy's" offspring were bulls.

O'Hanlon pointed out the city's registration list reached its all-time peak of 12,642 prior to the 1940 Presidential election.

Since the end of World War II, periodic registration losses have been blamed on migration to new residential areas in adjoining Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

In asking reinstatement by mail, the voter need only sign his name, list his correct address and mail the card back to the Election Board.

The registration by mail feature was written into the law a few years ago by the State Legislature.

O'Hanlon said experience has shown only about 10 per cent of the disqualified electors take advantage of the new system.

Persian Cat Comes Home After 4 Years

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—Danny, the Persian cat, has come home after an absence of four years. He disappeared in 1960, and suddenly showed up again.

"He comes in morning, noon and night and has settled down as if he'd never been gone," says Mrs. C. Howard Ball.

Snowstorm Belts Georgia

By The Associated Press

The snow fell first in Atlanta and spread rapidly to other areas.

Snow blanketed streets and highways and hobbled traffic in Atlanta and other cities in the northern part of the state.

The Lockheed aircraft plant in Marietta suspended operations. So did a number of stores and other plants.

The snow amounted to two inches in some northern districts and reached as far south as Macon.

The first measurable snow in almost four years fell in New Orleans, a city flooded with tourists who came in for the New Year festivities.

Horse racing programs for Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fair Grounds were canceled.

About an inch of snow flurried down in New Orleans and Biloxi, Miss.

Intense cold covered the Northeast early in the day. Temperatures ranged down to —23 in Lebanon, N.H., and St. Johnsbury, Vt., and to —21 in Watertown, N.Y.; St. Marys, Pa., and Lone Rock, Wis.

The official low of —2 at Chicago's Midway Airport set a new mark for Dec. 31. So did the —21 in Portland, Maine.

Weather 'Extraordinary'

1963 Set Mark As Driest Year

The midnight bells and whistles closed out one of the most extraordinary periods of weather in the district, including the driest year on records.

Ed Copeland of Millport, U. S. Weather observer, reported in his annual summary 1963's rainfall total was a mere 26.15 inches, far below the normal 37 inches and a record breaker.

THE PREVIOUS dry year record was set in 1930 with 26.9 inches.

October was the fourth driest month on Copeland's 70-year-old books, with an arid quarter of inch of rain.

The past year was also the third "snowiest" one on his records with a total accumulation of 55 inches of the white stuff. The record of 64.5 inches of snow was set in 1910, with the next greatest amount of 55.1 inches reported for 1936.

The normal snowfall for a year is 29.5 inches.

Snow lay on the ground in the outer areas of the county from Dec. 6, 1962, until April 2 — probably the longest such period in the district records, Copeland commented.

THERE WERE only 105 rainy days during 1963, compared to the normal 120 days. Every third day should have rainfall, according to the weather averages, Copeland said.

The past year was 10.85 inches below normal in rainfall and 1962 was 6.44 inches below normal, making a total of 17.39 inches lacking for the area's precipitation.

A state authority pointed out the past 12 winters have been below normal for precipitation. The winter months are customarily the time when the water tables are "re-charged," and the failure to obtain sufficient water in the soil has left the water table the lowest in history, he reported.

COPELAND said the drought conditions did not seriously affect most crops in the district except for hay and pasture. He explained that the time of the rainfall is more important than the actual amount, and that the timing of precipitation during the past year benefited many crops.

The average temperature in 1963 was 46.3 degrees, or over 2 degrees below the normal 48.6.

There were 22 nights of zero or below readings, with the coldest nights recorded at minus-23 degrees on Jan. 29 and Feb. 26.

On Jan. 24, the high reading for the day was zero and the low was minus-19 degrees.

ON FEB. 27—27 Copeland recorded for the second time in 70 years the coldest nights in succession. In 1899, lows of minus-25 degrees were recorded on consecutive nights.

The year also posted seven days of temperatures in the 90's, with a high of 92 degrees on June 27.

The June reading was also unusual because the hottest days are usually recorded in August, but there was not a 90-degree reading in August, Copeland said.

State officials and Copeland look for 1964 to provide more moderate weather and more rainfall, according to the law of averages, which they say governs climactic conditions.

"In any event, 1963 proved to be a real, old - fashioned winter," Copeland said.

DECEMBER'S temperatures followed the year's pattern with a temperature average of 20 degrees, compared to the normal of 29.5.

A high of 50 degrees was reached Dec. 7, and a low of minus-14 degrees Tuesday.

There were seven nights with zero or below.

Snowfall amounted to 11.5 inches, twice the normal 5.7 inches. There were eight clear days, eight partly cloudy and 15 cloudy days. Sunshine averaged 38 per cent, compared to the normal 30 per cent.

Fire Marshal Reports

Blaze At Nursing Home Blamed On Carelessness

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A fire that killed 63 patients of the Golden Age Nursing Home at Fitchville last Nov. 23 was blamed on carelessness in a report today by State Fire Marshal Fred Rice.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered an investigation into the 4:45 a. m. blaze that destroyed the 186 X 65 foot one-story building housing 84 patients about 10 miles south of Norwalk. Only 21 survived.

"I have determined that the fire did not result from design, but it did result from carelessness," Rice said in his 26-page report.

"Both present and former owners permitted alterations of electrical circuit contrary to requirements of the National Electric Code.

"Sworn testimony of employees indicates repeated warnings, in the form of burned-out switches, a smoking fuse box and blown fuses, that electrical circuits were inadequate and improperly wired."

Rice made these findings in his report:

1. The probable cause of the fire was extensive shorting along overfused and improperly wired electrical circuits under an overload.

2. The probable cause of the extensive loss of life was lack of prompt evacuation based on an orderly plan.

3. The probable causes of the unusually extensive fire damage were (a) the nearly simultaneous ignition of fires at a number of different points in the attic and walls, and (b) delay in turning in the alarm to the fire department having jurisdiction.

GOLDEN Age Nursing Home, Inc., of Cleveland, purchased the concrete block building early in 1961. On May 7, a fire marshal inspector reported "no overfused or overloaded circuits". He also reported existance of "an established and documented evacuation plan."

An inspection March 26, 1963, by the fire marshal's office made no mention of wiring but cited an evacuation plan.

Rice said his investigation indicated that a series of fires ignited within a few minutes into a big blaze in attic and wall areas.

"While fires were igniting at such points," the report said, "open junction boxes were spouting high temperature arc fire into an open attic with an accumulation of flammable dust covering dry wood.

"Fire first burst through the roof, permitting entry of air . . .

"The investigation indicates that electrical power continued coursing through the circuits for some time after fires were ignited and blended. This was due to overfusing . . ."

The report said that Mrs. Ruth Shepherd of New London, manager of the home at the time of the fire, testified there was no evacuation plan.

Robert W. Pollack was listed as president of the firm operating the home licensed on April 12, 1961. Officers in addition to Pollack were Vice President Robert R. Leavitt and Secretary Treasurer Melvin Lazerick, both of Cleveland.

Rice stated that neither Huron County nor Fitchville Township have building regulation departments or building codes.

"There is no obligation upon any state agency at the present time to inspect such facilities and require adherence to the requirements of any building or electrical code," his report added.

Rice concluded his report with these recommendations:

1. Accelerated inspections with priority to nursing and rest homes with more than 30 patients and homes converted from different occupancy after the Aug. 1, 1958, effective date of the Ohio building code.

"Fire first burst through the roof, permitting entry of air . . .

"The investigation indicates that electrical power continued coursing through the circuits for some time after fires were ignited and blended. This was due to overfusing . . ."

The report said that Mrs. Ruth Shepherd of New London, manager of the home at the time of the fire, testified there was no evacuation plan.

Robert W. Pollack was listed as president of the firm operating the home licensed on April 12, 1961. Officers in addition to Pollack were Vice President Robert R. Leavitt and Secretary Treasurer Melvin Lazerick, both of Cleveland.

Rice stated that neither Huron County nor Fitchville Township have building regulation departments or building codes.

"There is no obligation upon any state agency at the present time to inspect such facilities and require adherence to the requirements of any building or electrical code," his report added.

Rice concluded his report with these recommendations:

1. Accelerated inspections with priority to nursing and rest homes with more than 30 patients and homes converted from different occupancy after the Aug. 1, 1958, effective date of the Ohio building code.

More Of The Same

Will there be a happier new year?

For some of us, perhaps. For many of us, perhaps no. For most of us, there will be more of the same.

Why not admit as we start a new calendar that we couldn't reasonably ask for more? If we could be sure of doing as well next year as we've done in 1963, we'd be getting better than we deserve.

This is what it means to be philosophical; this is what it would be like to be a philosopher — to be wise, rational, temperate and unruffled.

They are characteristics that sports-minded Americans admire. Yet, many Americans — sports-minded and otherwise — never have attained or even tried to be philosophical about their own lives.

HAPPY NEW YEAR . . .

Except for an extra day, it will be like the old year — a mixture of happiness, sorrow, drought, rain, cloudiness and sunshine.

Some of the best people will die young. Some of the worst will linger on and on.

There will be no diminution of evil.

There will be an accretion of virtue.

The struggle to keep things from going haywire will be carried on with vigor and indifferent success.

Unworthy hands will dip into public tills and steal funds. But worthy hands will provide a sure touch in public and private affairs, to keep things on an even keel.

Hate will be offset with surges of love.

Extremists will counteract each other, to the effect of providing a livable environment for the moderates they despise far more than they despise each other.

This is the key to understanding why happiness in the new year will be neither greater nor less than it was in the old year — this compensatory pattern of nature and human life — this reaction that follows action — this built-in stabilization of energy.

HAPPY NEW YEAR . . .

At the beginning of this new year, the declaration has more substance than it has had for many years, because Americans are conditioned after the assassination of their president last Nov. 22 to reject extremism and turn to moderation.

They have seen the awful consequences of immoderation. Moderates have had a grim reminder of the danger that surrounds them.

HAPPY NEW YEAR . . .

May all of us have gained something in poise, wisdom, temperance and rationality from the past.

U.N. Showdown With Russia

The Soviet Union becomes liable to action under article 19 of the United Nations Charter and may lose its vote in the General Assembly after Jan. 1.

A deliberate policy of non-support could cost Russia its vote in the General Assembly.

Article 19 of the U.N. Charter provides that a member owing the equivalent of two years' contributions "shall have no vote in the General Assembly." Adlai E. Stevenson on Dec. 18 declared that the future of the U.N. as an "action agency" was threatened by the refusal of the Soviet Union to pay its share of U.N. activities. He indicated the United States would insist on enforcing Article 19.

A day earlier the Russian delegation had confirmed its refusal to pay the $36,984,971 it owes for the Congo force and the $15,638,166 it owes for the Middle East. It holds both these activities illegal.

THE INTERNATIONAL court of Justice at The Hague on July 20, 1962, ruled all members of the United Nations are legally obligated to pay expenses of the peacekeeping forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

Russia and the Communist bloc in general profess to believe that peacekeeping assessments should be voted not by the General Assembly but by the Security Council, in which Russia has a veto. Last December, the General Assembly voted, 76 to 17, to accept the World Court's opinion.

Opposing the World Court opinion were the Communist bloc and Cuba, France, Jordan, Portugal, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and South Africe. The fact France takes a position on peacemaking assessments like that of the Soviet Union makes the subject delicate for the United States and the West in general.

DR. CARLOS SOSA RODRIGUEZ, president of the Assembly session which ended Dec. 17, said the decision on enforcement involved political as well as legal issues. He declined to say whether he would uphold the rule if elected president of a special session. Short of such an emergency meeting, Russia's vote would come in jeopardy only at the regular session next September.

Ambassador Stevenson in an interview Dec. 22 made it clear that the United States would be pleased if Russia and other delinquent nations met their obligations sufficiently to avoid a contest over the vote forfeit.

He also explained that no question of expulsion was involved, and that by our interpretation of the U.N. Charter, Russia would retain its Security Council veto.

Let's Sit This One Out

Early in the new year, this country will be asked to whoop it up for the newest idea in aviation hardware—a new type of strategic bomber.

The routine always is the same. First, the American people are told the new weapon is indispensable and will be worth every cent of the billions it will cost.

Next, someone with a similar item of hardware says it is superior and will cost less. Congress gets into the melee, which goes around and around until a compromise is reached that permits a few billions to be spent on a pilot model of the new weapon — just to keep everybody happy.

This ultimately is junked and forgotten because some genius has come up with a still newer idea. And so on ad infinitum.

The new strategic bomber, it is surmised, will crowed out the B-70, a disheartening experimental project that finally was whittled down to three experimental models. The B-70, it will be recalled, was something that came along after the new missiles had crowded out the B-52 and the B-58. The word had gone around at that time that the United States was through with manned bombers for good and all. It was going over 100 per cent to missiles when its manned bombers finally were phased out of existence. But the B-70 would go 2,000 miles an hour, so it was given a try so now there is going to be still another manned bomber.

We think we'll sit this one out, there being nothing we can do about it anyway except pay our taxes and hope the boys finally know what they are doing.

No Blood Showed

By Truman Twill

Not since the opening day of a long ago summer season at Brady Lake — Memorial Day—had I worn anything as daring as a red velvet vest. I was given the monstrosity at Christmas a year ago.

It still had the tags stitched to it Christmas morning when I asked the lady who mends the holes in my sock what she did with that crazy vest.

She found it where it had been for a year — in a corner of a bureau drawer. I wore it Christmas Day — with my coat on. If I had been wearing a live snake I couldn't have caused more comment.

Then, reluctant to put it away for another year, I wore it to work the day after Christmas. You might have thought I had shown up on the job with a plunging neckline. Oh. Aah.

THAT WILL BE the last of the red velvet vest until Yule Yearning hits this part of the country again. Wearing it was more of a strain on the rabbity nature of the wearer than on the eyeballs of the viewers.

On that memorable occasion, a kid who lived around the corner and I dated a pair of dolls to go dancing. It came out that the dolls were going as a sister act — in identical dresses.

The kid around the corner and I, not to be outdone by a couple of girls who lived on the other side of town, worked up a brother act. Now get this:

We wore gray spats.

IN SPITE OF the shock, it was one of those happy-as-a-lark occasions when nothing could go wrong.

We danced all afternoon and evening. You bought tickets, 5 cents a dance. I cannot be certain about the orchestra but—and this will be meaningful to a few readers with the vintage glow on them—I think it was Emerson Gill.

Finally, a glorious day was over.

The girls never appeared again as a sister act in red-checked gingham. The kid around the corner and I never double-teamed it again in spats and gray vests with dark suits. I never wore spats again nor a gray vest.

It crystallized a trauma in me about conspicuous dress. It spoiled everything even remotely flashy. From that time on, I was a mouse in sheep's clothing. Until that red velvet vest.

But on the day after Christmas a fellow bleeds a lot when he goes back to work. It never showed. That was my excuse.

Labor Fights Government Frugality

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

The union chiefs want more government spending, not less. And they want it early in the new year. They're getting as much warmth and friendship from Mr. Johnson as any other president has given them. But no definite promises of heavy federal spending.

This takes a considerable amount of presidential talent on the political tightrope. Typical is the moment on Dec. 19 when he was signing the new federal retraining bill in his office in front of nationally hooked up microphones and TV cameras. Present were the official observers and pen collectors. The President suddenly turned to one man, Andrew Biemiller, the AFL-CIO lobbyist.

Andy, tell George Meany that I got his letter and I agree with him, the President said. The National Labor Relations Board is doing a wonderful job. They deserve more money. They'll get it—not as much as they want—but they will get more than they have.

AFTER THE CEREMONY, the puzzled Mr. Biemiller talked to AFL-CIO President Meany. What letter was President Johnson referring to, he asked his chief. Meany immediately checked the files. Yes, he had written a short note to the President after NLRB chairman, Frank McCulloch, had come to him to say he was worried over Mr. Johnson's budget-cutting binge. Meany afterwards had written to the President urging him not to cut the board's budget.

They hardly had expected the President to announce support of their almost routine letter on the national airwaves.

Mr. Johnson kept in telephone touch with Meany on the proposed slashes in government personnel.

When it came to phasing out missile, space and other defense production, the President personally contacted auto union chief Walter Reuther. The latter had been in Kenya as part of a small delegation representing the United States at that African nation's independence celebration. On his return, Reuther was asked to see the President.

THYE GOT TOGETHER on the night of Monday Dec. 23. Undoubtedly they discussed the laid off Studebaker workers of South Bend, as well as the coming discharges of defense workers around the country..

During the last week or so, President Johnson has talked with garment workers' chief, Dave Dubinsky, and steelworkers' president, Dave McDonald, about specific economic problems. To others he has written letters. And to some such as Howard Coughlin, head of the Office Employes International Union, he has dispatched telegrams.

So all-encompassing has this White House campaign been that even Mrs. "Lady Bird" Johnson was drafted into making calls on economic matters.

At no time does Johnson lose his sense of humor. Recently, while talking to George Meany, he reached into a box and pulled out two golden cigarette lighters.

He gave them to Meany, who chomps, rather than smokes, cigars. Each was marked with the words,"Vice President."

BUT THE HUMOR, the good fellowship, the constant appeals for advice and support are not neutralizing labor's demands for heavy federal spending.

The labor men are saying that the nation's production and sales went up 4 per cent, or about $30 billion. Yet the number of jobless during the year averaged an increase of one hundred thousand. The average monthly total was 4.1 million.

According to the AFL-CIO's Research Department chief, Nat Goldfinger, this meant that more than 12 million persons lost their jobs and sought new ones throughout the year.

Labor leaders have been telling this to Mr. Johnson and his staff. The union men want him to declare for hgher spending, huge public works projects, and an immediate increase in the minimum wage standard which now is at $1.25 an hour. They want the minimum wage law to begin covering hotel, motel, restaurant, laundry and other workers not yet under the law's provisions.

They want an official 35-hour week law during this session of Congress. They want interest and a tax cut, too. And they want it in 1964.

President Johnson will find them insistent and outspoken, too, during the election year.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—With the end of 1933, the 14 - man East Liverpool police force closed the docket with one of the best records in the history of the department, Chief Hugh McDermott announced.

Joseph A. Howell, son of Mrs. Geneva Howell of Ohio Ave., East End, joined the Marines and left for Parris Island, S.C. for training.

Mrs. E. H. Riggs of Park Blvd., accompanied by her son, James, a student at the University of Pittsburgh, spent the holidays at their winter home in Winter Park, Fla.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—The Millport weather observer reported that the coldest month for 1943 was December, with an average of 27.9 degrees against a normal 48.5.

A new Cub Scout Pack was organized in Wellsville under the sponsorship of the First Baptist Church, with William Tullie as leader.

Jack Steffen of Bradshaw Ave. captured the annual YMCA toy train race and became the first district boy in the history of the event to win the "Casey Jones" title twice. He also was the 1942 champion.

East Liverpool's parking meters produced $40,500 in 1953, a new record.

Barry's Popularity

By David Lawrence

Goldwater Provides Lesson For Candidates

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona may or may not be the Republican presidential nominee but any other aspiring candidate could learn a great deal from a study of just "what makes Barry run." The Goldwater phenomenon contains more lessons and more guide-lines on how elections are won in America than might occur to those who have a tendency today to discount his strength as they trot out new candidates.

David Lawrence

The public opinion polls do not always ask the $64 question but if voters in the Republican party from coast to coast were to be asked who of all the candidates has been most intensively opposed to the policies of the Democratic administration, the Arizona senator would doubtless be designated by the vast majority.

The secret of Barry Goldwater's popularity with the rank and file of the Republican organizations which pick most of the delegates is to be found in his evident conviction that the country has suffered grievously under the Democrats and doesn't have a chance for an era of continuing prosperity and full employment unless the kind of confidence returns which has been characteristic of Republican administrations.

To the comment on this, made immediately in rebuttal, that some lean years emerged also during the Eisenhower administration, Republican theoreticians point, of course, to the divided government that prevailed during those years.

Indeed, the Republicans themselves have been remiss on the stump in failing to draw attention to the fact that since 1933 the Democrats have been in control of Congress all but four years and that, during the last six years of the Eisenhower administration, the Democrats controlled both houses as budget deficits accumulated.

THE GOLDWATER build-up, of course, was founded on far more powerful currents in public opinion than the failure of Democratic Congresses to give the Republican administration its legislative requests in the 1950s. It was based on something more recent — what happened between Jan. 20, 1961, and Nov. 22, 1963.

The reaction against Kennedy administration policies in many parts of the country was plainly one of deepseated hostility. Rarely has there been such antagonism displayed since the days of Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican who managed to stir up for a time almost as many animosities in the business world as did the late President Kennedy.

The eulogies and the tributes expressed during the recent period of mourning have not erased from the minds of a large number of opposition voters their objections to administration policies. To the extend that President Johnson may continue those policies, he also will be the target of political attack. Nobody knows this better perhaps than the new President, who is sensitive to political tides.

Mr. Goldwater's present embarrassment, or handicap, stems from the fact that there is popular tendency to consider the past as past and certainly not as a liability of Mr. Johnson. Hence, it has been thought that Sen. Goldwater would hardly fire away at the new President for alleged mistakes made by his predecessor.

YET THE PROBLEM on the stump for any would-be Republican nominee remains the the same. It's to dissect and analyze current policies — including those inherited which will remain in effect — and get across to the people the idea that under a Republican administration the millenium would arrive and the mistakes of the Democrats would be promptly corrected.

There isn't much time for an opposition campaign but there is sufficient time if it is effectively used. Whether any Republican other than Mr. Goldwater will attempt such tactics seems doubtful. Virtually all the other would-be candidates prefer to be more or less polite to the Democrats. It's a kind of "me-too-ism."

Former Vice President Nixon probably would be vigorous enough on the attack if he didn't feel that he has to hold back now and wait for a sort of draft movement in his party. Even in the past Mr. Nixon has not been as vehement in his political warfare as Mr. Goldwater has been in recent months.

ACTUALLY, the Arizona senator's popularity is related to the spontaneous response of many Republican voters who feel he reflects their militancy.

No candidate on the horizon other than Sen. Goldwater seems to typify the opposition to the Democratic party nor to express so wholeheartedly the inner feelings of those voters who want to see the Democratic party removed from power.

Since these were the basic reasons for the Goldwater boom in the first place, he is—despite what the polls now say about his decline — a figure to be reckoned with in the next six months and especially in the first quarter of 1964, when he can be expected to become even more vocal than he has been lately. Only this time he doubtless will concentrate on fundamental issues that have undergone no change, rather than dwell on the personalities involved.

Pay Hike For Congress

By J. W. Davis

The possibility that Congress might vote itself a pay raise this year seems to be growing weaker.

The chance that Congress will require its members to disclose all their financial sources looks even slimmer—slim to point of no chance in sight.

There has been considerable agitation for a pay raise, from $22,500 a year to $32,500. But congressmen are notoriously nervous about raising their pay during an election year and that's what 1964 is. Also, Congress' job performance this year has been widely criticized.

Already there has been a revival, on a small scale, of the "Bundles for Congress" campaign that infuriated and alarmed a good many of the senators and representatives in the 1940s.

In that satirical campaign, taxpayers sent packages of second-hand clothes to members of Congress who were complaining about how hard up they were and how much they needed a raise.

Each month a bundle of old clothes from the "Senior Citizens of Tioga County, Sabinsville, Pa.," arrived at the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which had approved the pay raise bill.

The donors said they hoped the gift "will help tide you over."

The idea of requiring disclosure of income sources is to discourage conflicts of interest, to guard against official actions for private gain. If a senator was known to hold stock in a certain company, for example, he might hesitate to vote for legislation that would help that company.

But most members aren't eager to bare all. They take the stand that, unless the personal income affairs of every citizen are a matter of public record, there is no sound reason Congress members should be singled out.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., is one of those who has provided a statement of his finances.

But, in saying he would back a bill to require similar disclosures by all members of Congress, Hart pointed to a contradictory situation.

"If a man reveals himself to have much investment wealth, one of two conclusions is possible: He has much personal interest to protect and is therefore suspect, or he will act objectively because he can be independent of moneyed pressure groups.

"If, on the other hand, he reveals that he has little or no wealth, again two contradictory conclusions can be drawn: He will act objectively because he has no personal wealth to protect, or he will be particularly susceptible to moneyed pressure groups."

In the end, Hart said, the decision would still seem to rest on the public's opinion of a man's integrity.

U.N. Showdown With Russia

The Soviet Union becomes liable to action under article 19 of the United Nations Charter and may lose its vote in the General Assembly after Jan. 1.

A deliberate policy of non-support could cost Russia its vote in the General Assembly.

Article 19 of the U.N. Charter provides that a member owing the equivalent of two years' contributions "shall have no vote in the General Assembly." Adlai E. Stevenson on Dec. 18 declared that the future of the U.N. as an "action agency" was threatened by the refusal of the Soviet Union to pay its share of U.N. activities. He indicated the United States would insist on enforcing Article 19.

A day earlier the Russian delegation had confirmed its refusal to pay the $36,984,971 it owes for the Congo force and the $15,638,166 it owes for the Middle East. It holds both these activities illegal.

THE INTERNATIONAL court of Justice at The Hague on July 20, 1962, ruled all members of the United Nations are legally obligated to pay expenses of the peacekeeping forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

Russia and the Communist bloc in general profess to believe that peacekeeping assessments should be voted not by the General Assembly but by the Security Council, in which Russia has a veto. Last December, the General Assembly voted, 76 to 17, to accept the World Court's opinion.

Opposing the World Court opinion were the Communist bloc and Cuba, France, Jordan, Portugal, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and South Africe. The fact France takes a position on peacemaking assessments like that of the Soviet Union makes the subject delicate for the United States and the West in general.

DR. CARLOS SOSA RODRIGUEZ, president of the Assembly session which ended Dec. 17, said the decision on enforcement involved political as well as legal issues. He declined to say whether he would uphold the rule if elected president of a special session. Short of such an emergency meeting, Russia's vote would come in jeopardy only at the regular session next September.

Ambassador Stevenson in an interview Dec. 22 made it clear that the United States would be pleased if Russia and other delinquent nations met their obligations sufficiently to avoid a contest over the vote forfeit.

He also explained that no question of expulsion was involved, and that by our interpretation of the U.N. Charter, Russia would retain its Security Council veto.

Let's Sit This One Out

Early in the new year, this country will be asked to whoop it up for the newest idea in aviation hardware—a new type of strategic bomber.

The routine always is the same. First, the American people are told the new weapon is indispensable and will be worth every cent of the billions it will cost.

Next, someone with a similar item of hardware says it is superior and will cost less. Congress gets into the melee, which goes around and around until a compromise is reached that permits a few billions to be spent on a pilot model of the new weapon — just to keep everybody happy.

This ultimately is junked and forgotten because some genius has come up with a still newer idea. And so on ad infinitum.

The new strategic bomber, it is surmised, will crowed out the B-70, a disheartening experimental project that finally was whittled down to three experimental models. The B-70, it will be recalled, was something that came along after the new missiles had crowded out the B-52 and the B-58. The word had gone around at that time that the United States was through with manned bombers for good and all. It was going over 100 per cent to missiles when its manned bombers finally were phased out of existence. But the B-70 would go 2,000 miles an hour, so it was given a try so now there is going to be still another manned bomber.

We think we'll sit this one out, there being nothing we can do about it anyway except pay our taxes and hope the boys finally know what they are doing.

No Blood Showed

By Truman Twill

Not since the opening day of a long ago summer season at Brady Lake — Memorial Day—had I worn anything as daring as a red velvet vest. I was given the monstrosity at Christmas a year ago.

It still had the tags stitched to it Christmas morning when I asked the lady who mends the holes in my sock what she did with that crazy vest.

She found it where it had been for a year — in a corner of a bureau drawer. I wore it Christmas Day — with my coat on. If I had been wearing a live snake I couldn't have caused more comment.

Then, reluctant to put it away for another year, I wore it to work the day after Christmas. You might have thought I had shown up on the job with a plunging neckline. Oh. Aah.

THAT WILL BE the last of the red velvet vest until Yule Yearning hits this part of the country again. Wearing it was more of a strain on the rabbity nature of the wearer than on the eyeballs of the viewers.

On that memorable occasion, a kid who lived around the corner and I dated a pair of dolls to go dancing. It came out that the dolls were going as a sister act — in identical dresses.

The kid around the corner and I, not to be outdone by a couple of girls who lived on the other side of town, worked up a brother act. Now get this:

We wore gray spats.

IN SPITE OF the shock, it was one of those happy-as-a-lark occasions when nothing could go wrong.

We danced all afternoon and evening. You bought tickets, 5 cents a dance. I cannot be certain about the orchestra but—and this will be meaningful to a few readers with the vintage glow on them—I think it was Emerson Gill.

Finally, a glorious day was over.

The girls never appeared again as a sister act in red-checked gingham. The kid around the corner and I never double-teamed it again in spats and gray vests with dark suits. I never wore spats again nor a gray vest.

It crystallized a trauma in me about conspicuous dress. It spoiled everything even remotely flashy. From that time on, I was a mouse in sheep's clothing. Until that red velvet vest.

But on the day after Christmas a fellow bleeds a lot when he goes back to work. It never showed. That was my excuse.

Labor Fights Government Frugality

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

The union chiefs want more government spending, not less. And they want it early in the new year. They're getting as much warmth and friendship from Mr. Johnson as any other president has given them. But no definite promises of heavy federal spending.

This takes a considerable amount of presidential talent on the political tightrope. Typical is the moment on Dec. 19 when he was signing the new federal retraining bill in his office in front of nationally hooked up microphones and TV cameras. Present were the official observers and pen collectors. The President suddenly turned to one man, Andrew Biemiller, the AFL-CIO lobbyist.

Andy, tell George Meany that I got his letter and I agree with him, the President said. The National Labor Relations Board is doing a wonderful job. They deserve more money. They'll get it—not as much as they want—but they will get more than they have.

AFTER THE CEREMONY, the puzzled Mr. Biemiller talked to AFL-CIO President Meany. What letter was President Johnson referring to, he asked his chief. Meany immediately checked the files. Yes, he had written a short note to the President after NLRB chairman, Frank McCulloch, had come to him to say he was worried over Mr. Johnson's budget-cutting binge. Meany afterwards had written to the President urging him not to cut the board's budget.

They hardly had expected the President to announce support of their almost routine letter on the national airwaves.

Mr. Johnson kept in telephone touch with Meany on the proposed slashes in government personnel.

When it came to phasing out missile, space and other defense production, the President personally contacted auto union chief Walter Reuther. The latter had been in Kenya as part of a small delegation representing the United States at that African nation's independence celebration. On his return, Reuther was asked to see the President.

THYE GOT TOGETHER on the night of Monday Dec. 23. Undoubtedly they discussed the laid off Studebaker workers of South Bend, as well as the coming discharges of defense workers around the country..

During the last week or so, President Johnson has talked with garment workers' chief, Dave Dubinsky, and steelworkers' president, Dave McDonald, about specific economic problems. To others he has written letters. And to some such as Howard Coughlin, head of the Office Employes International Union, he has dispatched telegrams.

So all-encompassing has this White House campaign been that even Mrs. "Lady Bird" Johnson was drafted into making calls on economic matters.

At no time does Johnson lose his sense of humor. Recently, while talking to George Meany, he reached into a box and pulled out two golden cigarette lighters.

He gave them to Meany, who chomps, rather than smokes, cigars. Each was marked with the words,"Vice President."

BUT THE HUMOR, the good fellowship, the constant appeals for advice and support are not neutralizing labor's demands for heavy federal spending.

The labor men are saying that the nation's production and sales went up 4 per cent, or about $30 billion. Yet the number of jobless during the year averaged an increase of one hundred thousand. The average monthly total was 4.1 million.

According to the AFL-CIO's Research Department chief, Nat Goldfinger, this meant that more than 12 million persons lost their jobs and sought new ones throughout the year.

Labor leaders have been telling this to Mr. Johnson and his staff. The union men want him to declare for hgher spending, huge public works projects, and an immediate increase in the minimum wage standard which now is at $1.25 an hour. They want the minimum wage law to begin covering hotel, motel, restaurant, laundry and other workers not yet under the law's provisions.

They want an official 35-hour week law during this session of Congress. They want interest and a tax cut, too. And they want it in 1964.

President Johnson will find them insistent and outspoken, too, during the election year.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO—With the end of 1933, the 14 - man East Liverpool police force closed the docket with one of the best records in the history of the department, Chief Hugh McDermott announced.

Joseph A. Howell, son of Mrs. Geneva Howell of Ohio Ave., East End, joined the Marines and left for Parris Island, S.C. for training.

Mrs. E. H. Riggs of Park Blvd., accompanied by her son, James, a student at the University of Pittsburgh, spent the holidays at their winter home in Winter Park, Fla.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—The Millport weather observer reported that the coldest month for 1943 was December, with an average of 27.9 degrees against a normal 48.5.

A new Cub Scout Pack was organized in Wellsville under the sponsorship of the First Baptist Church, with William Tullie as leader.

Jack Steffen of Bradshaw Ave. captured the annual YMCA toy train race and became the first district boy in the history of the event to win the "Casey Jones" title twice. He also was the 1942 champion.

East Liverpool's parking meters produced $40,500 in 1953, a new record.

Barry's Popularity

By David Lawrence

Goldwater Provides Lesson For Candidates

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona may or may not be the Republican presidential nominee but any other aspiring candidate could learn a great deal from a study of just "what makes Barry run." The Goldwater phenomenon contains more lessons and more guide-lines on how elections are won in America than might occur to those who have a tendency today to discount his strength as they trot out new candidates.

David Lawrence

The public opinion polls do not always ask the $64 question but if voters in the Republican party from coast to coast were to be asked who of all the candidates has been most intensively opposed to the policies of the Democratic administration, the Arizona senator would doubtless be designated by the vast majority.

The secret of Barry Goldwater's popularity with the rank and file of the Republican organizations which pick most of the delegates is to be found in his evident conviction that the country has suffered grievously under the Democrats and doesn't have a chance for an era of continuing prosperity and full employment unless the kind of confidence returns which has been characteristic of Republican administrations.

To the comment on this, made immediately in rebuttal, that some lean years emerged also during the Eisenhower administration, Republican theoreticians point, of course, to the divided government that prevailed during those years.

Indeed, the Republicans themselves have been remiss on the stump in failing to draw attention to the fact that since 1933 the Democrats have been in control of Congress all but four years and that, during the last six years of the Eisenhower administration, the Democrats controlled both houses as budget deficits accumulated.

THE GOLDWATER build-up, of course, was founded on far more powerful currents in public opinion than the failure of Democratic Congresses to give the Republican administration its legislative requests in the 1950s. It was based on something more recent — what happened between Jan. 20, 1961, and Nov. 22, 1963.

The reaction against Kennedy administration policies in many parts of the country was plainly one of deepseated hostility. Rarely has there been such antagonism displayed since the days of Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican who managed to stir up for a time almost as many animosities in the business world as did the late President Kennedy.

The eulogies and the tributes expressed during the recent period of mourning have not erased from the minds of a large number of opposition voters their objections to administration policies. To the extend that President Johnson may continue those policies, he also will be the target of political attack. Nobody knows this better perhaps than the new President, who is sensitive to political tides.

Mr. Goldwater's present embarrassment, or handicap, stems from the fact that there is popular tendency to consider the past as past and certainly not as a liability of Mr. Johnson. Hence, it has been thought that Sen. Goldwater would hardly fire away at the new President for alleged mistakes made by his predecessor.

YET THE PROBLEM on the stump for any would-be Republican nominee remains the the same. It's to dissect and analyze current policies — including those inherited which will remain in effect — and get across to the people the idea that under a Republican administration the millenium would arrive and the mistakes of the Democrats would be promptly corrected.

There isn't much time for an opposition campaign but there is sufficient time if it is effectively used. Whether any Republican other than Mr. Goldwater will attempt such tactics seems doubtful. Virtually all the other would-be candidates prefer to be more or less polite to the Democrats. It's a kind of "me-too-ism."

Former Vice President Nixon probably would be vigorous enough on the attack if he didn't feel that he has to hold back now and wait for a sort of draft movement in his party. Even in the past Mr. Nixon has not been as vehement in his political warfare as Mr. Goldwater has been in recent months.

ACTUALLY, the Arizona senator's popularity is related to the spontaneous response of many Republican voters who feel he reflects their militancy.

No candidate on the horizon other than Sen. Goldwater seems to typify the opposition to the Democratic party nor to express so wholeheartedly the inner feelings of those voters who want to see the Democratic party removed from power.

Since these were the basic reasons for the Goldwater boom in the first place, he is—despite what the polls now say about his decline — a figure to be reckoned with in the next six months and especially in the first quarter of 1964, when he can be expected to become even more vocal than he has been lately. Only this time he doubtless will concentrate on fundamental issues that have undergone no change, rather than dwell on the personalities involved.

Pay Hike For Congress

By J. W. Davis

The possibility that Congress might vote itself a pay raise this year seems to be growing weaker.

The chance that Congress will require its members to disclose all their financial sources looks even slimmer—slim to point of no chance in sight.

There has been considerable agitation for a pay raise, from $22,500 a year to $32,500. But congressmen are notoriously nervous about raising their pay during an election year and that's what 1964 is. Also, Congress' job performance this year has been widely criticized.

Already there has been a revival, on a small scale, of the "Bundles for Congress" campaign that infuriated and alarmed a good many of the senators and representatives in the 1940s.

In that satirical campaign, taxpayers sent packages of second-hand clothes to members of Congress who were complaining about how hard up they were and how much they needed a raise.

Each month a bundle of old clothes from the "Senior Citizens of Tioga County, Sabinsville, Pa.," arrived at the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which had approved the pay raise bill.

The donors said they hoped the gift "will help tide you over."

The idea of requiring disclosure of income sources is to discourage conflicts of interest, to guard against official actions for private gain. If a senator was known to hold stock in a certain company, for example, he might hesitate to vote for legislation that would help that company.

But most members aren't eager to bare all. They take the stand that, unless the personal income affairs of every citizen are a matter of public record, there is no sound reason Congress members should be singled out.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., is one of those who has provided a statement of his finances.

But, in saying he would back a bill to require similar disclosures by all members of Congress, Hart pointed to a contradictory situation.

"If a man reveals himself to have much investment wealth, one of two conclusions is possible: He has much personal interest to protect and is therefore suspect, or he will act objectively because he can be independent of moneyed pressure groups.

"If, on the other hand, he reveals that he has little or no wealth, again two contradictory conclusions can be drawn: He will act objectively because he has no personal wealth to protect, or he will be particularly susceptible to moneyed pressure groups."

In the end, Hart said, the decision would still seem to rest on the public's opinion of a man's integrity.

Placements Of Jobless Up For Past Year

The jobless picture in East Liverpool brightened considerably during the past year, according to a survey of the first 11 months by the Ohio State Employment Service.

The number of new and continued claims and compensation payments dropped sharply while more people were placed in jobs and the number seeking work was reduced, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Washington St. office, said.

November statistics showed the same trend when compared with November, 1962, he pointed out.

The average monthly number of new claims in the first 11 months last year was 287, down 53 from the 1962 average of 340, Dinsmore said. November claims totaled 312 against 344 in the preceding year.

Dinsmore said 767 people were placed in employment in the first 11 months compared to 511 for the comparable period in 1962. Forty-one were placed in November against 53 in November, 1962.

The average monthly number of people seeking work was 755, a decrease of 254 from the 1962 average of 1,009. Registrations in November totaled 673 against 1,039 in the preceding November.

Benefit payments in the first 11 months decreased by $159,941, totaling $427,350 against $587,291 in the first 11 months of 1962. Of the 1963 total, $47,141 was in dependency allowances while the 1962 total include $71,685 for dependency allowances.

Benefit payments in November totaled $23,678, an average weekly payment of $36.30, compared to $42,482 in November, 1962, an average check of $40.58.

Horticulture Society To Convene Thursday

The annual meeting of the Columbiana - Mahoning County Horticulture Society will be held Thursday at the Salem Christian Church.

Olin Baker of Lisbon R. D. 5, president, will preside, according to Don Myers, county agriculture extension agent. The program will open at 10 a. m. with reports by county agents on a tour of Michigan fruit farms. At 11, Howard Forsythe, horticulturist at the Ohio Experiment Station in Wooster, will discuss "Recent Developments in Orchard Management."

Lunch will be served at noon at the church. A business session is set at 1:15 including the annual report of Wayne Lloyd, manager of the Salem Fruit Growers' Co-operative. At 2 p. m., there will be a discussion on county planning by James Ryan, planning director of Mahoning County, and Floyd Lower, chairman of the Columbiana County Regional Planning Commission.

31 Died In County

8-Death Wreck Raised '63 Toll

The tragic death of eight area residents in the worst traffic accident in Columbiana County history pushed the 1963 road toll to 31, one of the highest in recent years and one over the 1962 total.

Four adults and four young people were either killed or fatally injured when a steel coil from a trailer truck hit one car and the truck hit a second car head - on at Williamsport Oct. 2.

THE COUNTY toll was 12 more than the 19 in 1961.

East Liverpool listed one traffic death this year, compared to four in 1962, while Wellsville, which had two last year, escaped without a fatality.

The eastern area of the county generally had most of the fatal accidents, but the northeastern area had the great majority of crashes last year. In 1963 there were four fatal mishaps south of Lisbon and 17 north; in 1962, there were 11 fatal collisions south of Lisbon and 13 north.

There were six pedestrians killed by cars in 1963 compared to eight in 1962.

THE AUTO toll included 13 drivers and 12 passengers.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported a total of 896 accidents through Tuesday, compared to some 763 for all of 1962.

A breakdown of the road deaths, month-by-month, with 1962 deaths in parenthesis, shows: January 1 (2); February 3 (0); March 2 (9); April 2 (1); May 1 (5); June 3 (0); 'july 3 (3); August 1 (3); September 1 (1); October 9 (2); November 2 (4), and December 3 (0).

THE ANNUAL traffic toll for recent years was: 1960—26; 1958—28; 1958—22; 1957—28; 1956—17; 1955—30; 1954—24: 1953—27; 1952—35; 1951—19, and 1950—19.

Traveling too fast for road conditions or exceeding the speed limit were the chief causes of accidents, the patrol said.

Family Ties Emphasized

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — As the new year dawns, the blackboard in my daughter's room looks strangely bare.

It hangs on a wall opposite her bed, and Tracy Ann uses the blackboard as a kind of school away from school. As do many 10-year-olds, she loves to play teacher herself—and the blackboard lends the game the semblance of reality.

One day last November, just before school let out, she and her classmates learned that the President of the United States had been shot.

Tracy Ann hurried home to tell her mother, and they switched on the television set. My daughter wept uncontrollably for nearly an hour.

In the crowded days that followed so swiftly she could not get the event out of her mind, any more than grownups could. Sometime during those four tragic days she went alone to her blackboard, picked up a piece of chalk and neatly printed this bulletin:

"In history: John F. Kennedy died Friday, Nov. 22, 1963. Flags to fly at half staff for 30 days in mourning."

A relationship is sometimes best defined by its loss. So only through the death of President Kennedy did the nation come to realize how manifold a meaning he had.

He had become during his short term in authority a symbol of many things. He was a symbol of a dutiful son, a symbol of conscientious leadership, light - heartedly exemplifying that true mark of the champion —"grace under pressure"—and he was a symbol of proud and happy parenthood.

Probably because of the prevalence of television, the tragedy affected children almost as much as it did adults. It took away their innocence of death.

Burial of John F. Kennedy raised disturbing issues in the heart of my daughter, who has never seen a dead person and to whom until then death was largely a matter of hearsay. She asked me long and searching questions about mortality and immortality, some of which I found difficult to answer.

"After they covered President Kennedy with earth and flowers" she asked, "did everybody just go away and leave him there all by himself?"

In the days that followed she was extraordinarily kind and thoughtful to both her mother and me. Other parents I have talked to also have reported improved conduct in their children.

From this I gather that to children the message of President Kennedy's death spelled less the loss of a national leader than a breach in the security of the family, the only certainty children really know. It made millions of people fully aware of how bewilderingly dependent they are on family ties they usually take for granted, and this realization is the only good I can see that came from the whole sorry happening.

Huge Steel Output

The U. S. Steel industry turned out 109 million tons in 1963. It expects 1964 production will hit 111 million tons.

New Car Sales Up

New car sales in Columbiana County totaled 3,456 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 5.1 per cent from the 3,288 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit 318 in November, off 21.5 per cent from the 405 listed in October.

Used car sales totaled 12,300 in the first 11 months of last year, up 4.6 per cent from the 11,759 shown at the same time in 1962. They reached 725 in November, down 42 per cent from October's 1,250.

Bank clearings totaled $36,814,208 in the first 11 months of 1963, a gain of 1 per cent from the $36,431,981 shown at the same time in the preceding year. They reached $3,608,186 in November, a boost of 4.1 per cent from the $3,465,825 shown in October.

Bank Debits Rise

Bank debits hit a monthly average of $23,696,582 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 4.2 per cent from the $22,748,530 average shown at the same time in 1962. The debits hit $24,919,180 in November, up 13.6 per cent from the $21,943,233 shown in October.

Postal receipts totaled $269,220 in the first 11 months of 1963, a gain of 17.9 per cent from the $228,337 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit $48,634 in November, up 107 per cent from the $23,476 registered in October.

Outbound railroad carloadings totaled 3,948 through the first 11 months of 1963, a boost of 5.4 per cent from the 3,746 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit 322 in November, down 11.5 per cent from the 364 shown in October.

Carloadings Show Dip

Inbound carloadings totaled 2,456 for the first 11 months of 1963, down 6.1 per cent from the 2,616 shown at the same time in the preceding year. They totaled 186 in November, off 1.6 per cent from the 189 registered in October.

District dams locked through 4,832 river tows in the first 11 months of 1963, down 6.9 per cent from the 5,190 shown at the same time in 1962. The dams listed 439 tows in November, off 12 per cent from the 499 shown in October.

The river traffic in the first 11 months of 1963 represented 15,917,350 tons of cargo, down 1.3 per cent from the 16,123,600 tons shown in the same period of the preceding year. November's traffic represented 1,462,150 tons, off 11.8 per cent from the 1,657,800 tons shown in October.

Meter Receipts Up

The city's parking meter receipts hit $58,638 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 2.8 per cent from the $57,058 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit $3,986 in November, down 37.9 per cent from the $6,417 shown in October.

The city's relief case load averaged 89 monthly through the first 11 months of 1963, up 11.3 per cent from the average of 80 shown at the same time in 1962. There were 83 cases in November, a 2.5 per cent rise from October's 81.

Payrolls at 11 industrial plants totaled $12,120,151 in the first 11 months of 1963, off 11.3 per cent from the $13,667,206 shown at the same time in 1962. However, 12 plants were in operation in 1962, contrasted with 11 in 1963. November payrolls totaled $1,140,403, up 20.1 per cent from October's $949,487.

3,361 Work Monthly

Employment at the same plants averaged 3,361 monthly in the first 11 months of 1963, down 10.1 per cent from the 3,739 monthly average shown in 1962. Again, the figures represent 12 plants in 1962, but only 11 in 1963.

The firms had 3,616 on the job in November, up 8.5 per cent from October's 3,333.

Meters

The 1963 income figure does not include hundreds of dollars more collected in $1 and $2 penalties from violators. The money is paid as a forfeit at the "Meter Maid" office and then goes to Municipal Court. Most of the court's receipts are turned over to the general fund.

The peak month last year was May, with $7,850. In 1962, April topped all the other months, showing $6,446. In 1961, the revenue peaked at $7,622 in October. October also was the peak month in 1960, showing $6,749.

In 1962, the monthly average was $5,173, compared with $5,272 in 1961. In 1960, the monthly average was $5,034. In 1959, it was $4,804. In 1958, it was $5,280. The average in 1957 was $3,702. In 1956, it was $2,940.

Other monthly averages: 1955, $3,068; 1954, $3,500; 1953, $3,375; 1952, $2,943; 1951, $2,714; 1950, $2,936; 1949, $3,163, and 1948, $3,188.

Meter income was $35,325 in 1952. It hit $37,961 in 1949. It fell to $35,189 in 1950. The income in 1947 was $9,677, but the meters were in service only the last three months of the year.

Here are the monthly collection figures for 1963: January, $4,266; February, $4,170; March, $5,577; April, $4,233; May, $7,850; June, $5,519; July, $4,928; August, $6,691; September, $4,994; October, $6,416; November, $3,986, and December, $6,051.

By contrast, the monthly collections in 1962 were: January, $4,051; February, $4,206; March, $4,745; April, $6,446; May, $5,074; June, $5,157; July, $5,303; August, $5,883; September, $5,242; October, $6,048; November, $5,130 and December, $5,054.

Ware Shows At Chicago, Atlantic City

It was sponsored by the same group that arranged the Pittsburgh show for so many years.

Instead, district manufacturers will be represented at the Atlantic City show, which is scheduled to open Sunday at Convention Hall in the resort city, and the National Housewares Manufacturers' Association show Jan. 13-17 at the McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall in Chicago.

The Atlantic City show will run through Jan. 10. It is arranged by George Little Management Inc., of New York City.

THE HARKER China Co. will present its lines at both the Atlantic City and Chicago shows. The Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. and the Hall China Co. will be represented at the Chicago show only.

The Homer Laughlin China Co. said it already has ruled out participation in the Atlantic City show and does not expect to be at the Chicago show unless there is a last-minute cancellation by an exhibitor that makes space available.

Laughlin's said, however, that both shows attract principally buyers from department stores —a type of outlet that accounts for only a small fraction of its business. However, Laughlin's will have its ware at a premium show in Chicago late in January.

THE FIRM said it recently shipped a few test accounts of the new shape and received "very satisfactory consumer reaction," so it will be ready to offer immediate delivery on the ware at the two shows.

Last summer, Harker's introduced a Rockingham two-quart hound-handle jug, a reproduction of a piece made in 1850 that is in the East Liverpool Historical Society's Museum.

As a companion piece, it will introduce an 18-ounce hound - handle mug which may be utilized as a conversation piece, pencil caddy or planter in addition to its conventional use.

Harker's also will show its stoneware dinnerware lines and its "Olympic" engraved pattern. The stoneware lines include a variety of accessory items.

'Movie Studio' Spots Hawaii Drunk Drivers

Police Chief Dan Liu said the movies will be in color, and possibly will have a soundtrack.

Liu said the movies should "pretty well tell the effects of a person's drinking" and added the voice recordings would indicate slurred speech and other symptoms of intoxication.

Bruce Solibakke of Seattle joined the Washington varsity basketball team this season after averaging 13.8 points in 19 games for the 1962-63 freshman squad. He is 6-feet-7 and 202 pounds.

Annual Yule Tree Pickup To Be Launched Monday

The annual citywide collection of discarded Christmas trees will be launched Monday and continue through Friday, following the same routes as incinerator department trash trucks.

Safety - Service Director Robert Owen and Street Supt. W.M. Laughlin announced plans for the collection Tuesday. Laughlin said two street department trucks will be used for the traditional "roundup," with a third available to be pressed into service if the schedule lags.

The tree pickup trucks will cover in one day the streets serviced by trash collection trucks in two days. In that way, the entire city will be covered next week, Laughlin pointed out.

No site has been selected definitely for disposal of the trees, the superintendent said. However, the street department expects to follow its practice of supervised burning in isolated areas where property will not be endangered, he said.

Last year, some of the trees were burned on city - owned property along the River Rd. and other were destroyed on a lot off Claiborne St.

The street crew always advises the fire department before touching off such a fire. It also keeps two men at the scene to make certain the fire is controlled.

Laughlin advised householders the tree collection schedule will be announced on a day - to - day basis as the job proceeds. Trees should be placed at the curb or the rear property line so that they are readily visible to the collection crews, he said. The evergreens should be placed outside the night before a scheduled pickup, he added.

The city made it a practice for many years to offer the free tree collection service. In that way, the old evergreens are not discarded on streets or vacant lots.

Here's the schedule for the collection Monday:

Smithfield St., Orchard Grove Ave., Princeton Ave., Columbia Ave., Oliver St., Fairmont St., Highland Colony, Gardendale, Maplewood to the city limits, Park Blvd., Beechwood, Armstrong Ln., Mayberry Ln., Hill Blvd., Manor Ln., Midway Ln., Cain St., St. Clair Ave.

Fairview St., Division St., Hague Ave., Shadyside Ave., Church St., Denver St., Edwards Ave., Park Pl., Jethro, W. 8th St., Ridgeway Ave., Fenton St., Moore St., Claiborn St., May St., Florence St., John St., Burford St., Alton St. and California Hollow.

His solution?

He badgered Casper merchants for several weeks until he collected 75 silver dollars—all dated 1882, the year of her birth.

Mount Sinai

Mount Sinai has remained a strategic outpost from Biblical to modern times — a place holy to Christian, Jew and Moslem alike.

But the place where Moses received the Ten Commandments in the Sinai desert is occupied today by fewer than a dozen permanent residents, the National Geographic Society says.

They are monks of Greek descent who tend the 6th-century Monastery of St. Catherine built beneath the mountain as a fortress and shrine by the Byzantine Emperor Justinian the Great.

The bearded monks live a life apart, recalling the hermits who first cared for the sacred spot where, traditionally, Moses' voice issued miraculously from the "burning bush" before he was given the stone tablets on Sinai's summit.

The day of the monks starts at 3 a. m., with morning mass from 4 to 7. They eat a single meal, at noon. The austere round of services is maintained at St. Catherine's as it has been for 1,400 years.

Area Industry And Business See Good '64

Huge Steel Output

The U. S. Steel industry turned out 109 million tons in 1963. It expects 1964 production will hit 111 million tons.

New Car Sales Up

New car sales in Columbiana County totaled 3,456 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 5.1 per cent from the 3,288 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit 318 in November, off 21.5 per cent from the 405 listed in October.

Used car sales totaled 12,300 in the first 11 months of last year, up 4.6 per cent from the 11,759 shown at the same time in 1962. They reached 725 in November, down 42 per cent from October's 1,250.

Bank clearings totaled $36,814.208 in the first 11 months of 1963, a gain of 1 per cent from the $36,431,981 shown at the same time in the preceding year. They reached $3,608,186 in November, a boost of 4.1 per cent from the $3,465,825 shown in October.

Bank Debits Rise

Bank debits hit a monthly average of $23,696,582 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 4.2 per cent from the $22,748,530 average shown at the same time in 1962. The debits hit $24,919,180 in November, up 13.6 per cent from the $21,943,233 shown in October.

Postal receipts totaled $269,220 in the first 11 months of 1963, a gain of 17.9 per cent from the $228,337 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit $48,634 in November, up 107 per cent from the $23,476 registered in October.

Outbound railroad carloadings totaled 3,948 through the first 11 months of 1963, a boost of 5.4 per cent from the 3,746 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit 322 in November, down 11.5 per cent from the 364 shown in October.

Carloadings Show Dip

Inbound carloadings totaled 2,456 for the first 11 months of 1963, down 6.1 per cent from the 2,616 shown at the same time in the preceding year. They totaled 186 in November, off 1.6 per cent from the 189 registered in October.

District dams locked through 4,832 river tows in the first 11 months of 1963, down 6.9 per cent from the 5,190 shown at the same time in 1962. The dams listed 439 tows in November, off 12 per cent from the 499 shown in October.

The river traffic in the first 11 months of 1963 represented 15,917,350 tons of cargo, down 1.3 per cent from the 16,123,600 tons shown in the same period of the preceding year. November's traffic represented 1,462,150 tons, off 11.8 per cent from the 1,657,800 tons shown in October.

Meter Receipts Up

The city's parking meter receipts hit $58,638 in the first 11 months of 1963, up 2.8 per cent from the $57,058 shown at the same time in 1962. They hit $3,986 in November, down 37.9 per cent from the $6,417 shown in October.

The city's relief case load averaged 89 monthly through the first 11 months of 1963, up 11.3 per cent from the average of 80 shown at the same time in 1962. There were 83 cases in November, a 2.5 per cent rise from October's 81.

Payrolls at 11 industrial plants totaled $12,120,151 in the first 11 months of 1963, off 11.3 per cent from the $13,667,206 shown at the same time in 1962. However, 12 plants were in operation in 1962, contrasted with 11 in 1963. November payrolls totaled $1,140,403, up 20.1 per cent from October's $949,487.

3,361 Work Monthly

Employment at the same plants averaged 3,361 monthly in the first 11 months of 1963, down 10.1 per cent from the 3,739 monthly average shown in 1962. Again, the figures represent 12 plants in 1962, but only 11 in 1963.

The firms had 3,616 on the job in November, up 8.5 per cent from October's 3,333.

Meters

The 1963 income figure does not include hundreds of dollars more collected in $1 and $2 penalties from violators. The money is paid as a forfeit at the "Meter Maid" office and then goes to Municipal Court. Most of the court's receipts are turned over to the general fund.

The peak month last year was May, with $7,850. In 1962, April topped all the other months, showing $6,446. In 1961, the revenue peaked at $7,622 in October. October also was the peak month in 1960, showing $6,749.

In 1962, the monthly average was $5,173, compared with $5,272 in 1961. In 1960, the monthly average was $5,034. In 1959, it was $4,804. In 1958, it was $5,280. The average in 1957 was $3,702. In 1956, it was $2,940.

Other monthly averages: 1955, $3,068; 1954, $3,500; 1953, $3,375; 1952, $2,943; 1951, $2,714; 1950, $2,936; 1949, $3,163, and 1948, $3,188.

Meter income was $35,325 in 1952. It hit $37,961 in 1949. It fell to $35,189 in 1950. The income in 1947 was $9,677, but the meters were in service only the last three months of the year.

Here are the monthly collection figures for 1963: January, $4,266; February, $4,170; March, $5,577; April, $4,233; May, $7,850; June, $5,519; July, $4,928; August, $6,691; September, $4,994; October, $6,416; November, $3,986, and December, $6,051.

By contrast, the monthly collections in 1962 were: January, $4,051; February, $4,206; March, $4,745; April, $6,446; May, $5,074; June, $5,157; July, $5,303; August, $5,883; September, $5,242; October, $6,048; November, $5,130 and December, $5,054.

It was sponsored by the same group that arranged the Pittsburgh show for so many years.

Instead, district manufacturers will be represented at the Atlantic City show, which is scheduled to open Sunday at Convention Hall in the resort city, and the National Housewares Manufacturers' Association show Jan. 13-17 at the McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall in Chicago.

The Atlantic City show will run through Jan. 10. It is arranged by George Little Management Inc., of New York City.

THE HARKER China Co. will present its lines at both the Atlantic City and Chicago shows. The Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. and the Hall China Co. will be represented at the Chicago show only.

The Homer Laughlin China Co. said it already has ruled out participation in the Atlantic City show and does not expect to be at the Chicago show unless there is a last-minute cancellation by an exhibitor that makes space available.

Laughlin's said, however, that both shows attract principally buyers from department stores —a type of outlet that accounts for only a small fraction of its business. However, Laughlin's will have its ware at a premium show in Chicago late in January.

THE FIRM said it recently shipped a few test accounts of the new shape and received "very satisfactory consumer reaction," so it will be ready to offer immediate delivery on the ware at the two shows.

Last summer, Harker's introduced a Rockingham two-quart hound-handle jug, a reproduction of a piece made in 1850 that is in the East Liverpool Historical Society's Museum.

As a companion piece, it will introduce an 18-ounce hound-handle mug which may be utilized as a conversation piece, pencil caddy or planter in addition to its conventional use.

Harker's also will show its stoneware dinnerware lines and its "Olympic" engraved pattern. The stoneware lines include a variety of accessory items.

Teacher Calls Time To Find Contact Lens

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A school principal was surprised to walk into a classroom and find a barefoot teacher carefully sweeping the floor while the pupils sat with feet pulled up on their seats.

The teacher explained she had lost one of her new contact lenses. She discovered a short time later that it had just slipped to one side of her eye and the class returned to normal.

Esther M. Bryan Is Engaged To John N. Calhoun

Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Bryan of the Old Fredericktown Rd. announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Esther May Bryan, to John N. Calhoun, son of Mrs. Miriam Calhoun, 914 Commerce St., Wellsville, and the late Thomas O. Calhoun.

The prospective bride is a 1961 graduate of Beaver Local High School and is a junior at Milligan College, Johnson City, Tenn.

Her fiance was graduated from Wellsville High School and attended Muskingum College. He is employed in the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

No wedding date has been set.

Lava Lake Is Hot Lab For Scientists

The lake, formed Aug. 22-23 when a million cubic yards of lava spewed into the floor of an old pit crater near the observatory, has yielded the highest temperature actually recorded in a lava bed — 1,123 degrees centigrade.

U.S. scientists and volcanologists from Japan have started related programs which they hope will tell them a little more about volcanoes.

Scouts Will Hold Camp Jan. 25-26 At Lisbon Center

LISBON — The annual Shawnee Boy Scout District Polar Bear encampment will be held Jan. 25-26 at Camp McKinley, with over 300 boys expected to attend.

Designed to provide training for scouts to live comfortably outdoors under adverse weather conditions, the camp will be held on Saturday and Sunday.

Scouts will sleep in tents, using sleeping bags for warmth against the chilly January air. All cooking will be on an open wood fire and competitive skills and projects will be judged by the patrols.

Scouts must check in and set up camp by noon Saturday, although they may report Friday and make camp but will not be allowed to register before Saturday morning. All registered Boy Scouts, Explorers and adults from the district may attend. Camp will break up Sunday afternoon.

Each unit is to bring food and utensils.

Each patrol will do three projects on Saturday and two on Sunday.

Heber Lessig of Lisbon R. D. 5 will be camporee chief.

Final plans will be made at the Shawnee District Roundtable Jan. 8 at the Salem Methodist Church, according to Kenneth Mugridge, district executive.

Several gifts were presented at the annual Christmas dinner party of the employes of the J. C. Penney Co. and guests Monday night at the Willows Motel in Industry.

They were received by G. W. Woods, manager, Edward Smida, assistant manager, and Kevin O'Brien, departmental manager, and their wives. O'Brien received a farewell gift as he has been transferred to Hicksville, N. Y.

Jack Emery, chairman, was assisted with arrangements by Miss Jo Cataldo. A gift exchange was featured. The tables were decorated with seasonal items with covers arranged for 65.

About 120 attended the "college-age" dance Saturday night at the Country Club. Decorations were in the holiday theme.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Everson Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Pickin, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Weese.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

The Rev. and Mrs. M. Rudolph Miller of Thompson Ave. entertained Sunday afternoon with an informal social hour for college students of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, of which he is the minister.

Refreshments were served at a buffet table, covered with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations.

Mrs. H. Gene Toot, wife of the associate minister, poured at the silver service.

'You'll Never Walk Alone' Theme Of Job's Daughters

The theme, "You'll Never Walk Alone," was used for the installation ceremony of Miss Kay Eaton as honored queen of the International Order of Job's Daughters Bethel 61 Monday night at the Masonic Temple. About 175 attended.

Wearing a white gown with a long train, Miss Eaton introduced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eaton, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Eaton.

Large triangles, palms and flowers highlighted decorations in the East and West. The theme was exemplified in large letters in the triangle in the East.

Messengers named were Debbie Badger, first; Debbie Banfield, second; Karen Simpson, third; Nancy Doland, fourth, and Martha Williams, fifth.

The installing staff consisted of Miss Holly Lampman, retiring honored queen; Alice Jane Neiser, guide; Karen Keddie, marshal; Janet Ferguson, chaplain; Barbara Sneddon Deshler, recorder; Brenda Powers, senior custodian; Mary Alice Stark, junior custodian, and Carolyn Wilson, musician.

The Rev. John L. Clark, minister of the church Miss Eaton attends, emphasized several points of the theme for his address. Mrs. Robert Arnold sang "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Introduced with honors were the Bethel Executive Council, Mrs. Genevieve Hoffman, guardian; John Hall, associate guardian and vice associate grand guardian of Ohio; Miss Powers, secretary; Mrs. Phyllis McDowell, treasurer, and Mrs. Hazel Neiser, directress of music.

Also presented were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blackburn, worthy patron and matron of Crystal Chapter 18, Order of Eastern Star.

The Bethel Choir was comprised of Pamela Thrasher, Linda Martin, Miss Reeder, Judith Althar, Jane Althar, Kay Simpson, Junifer Koerber, Cindy Wilkinson, Carol Jack, Linda Jones, Judy Ibbs, Anna McDowell, Janet Andrews, Linda Haney, Barbara Haught, Carol Kidd, Janice Martin, Becky Simms, Jackie Darrah, Cheryl Rice and Vickie Edgell.

Committees named were Mary O'Neill and Mary Hoffman, proficiency; Mrs. Clara Young, Debbie Banfield and Nancy Doland, social; Mrs. Grace Hoffman, Judith Althar and Jane Althar, pledge; Mrs. Martha Underwood, Vicki Deshler and Terry Looman, paraphernalia; Anne McDowell and Becky Simms, sunshine, and Miss Eaton, Carolee Turner, Barbara Eason, Kathy Blackburn and Vicki Deshler, telephone.

A reception followed in the grillroom under the supervision of Mrs. Young. Mrs. Aaron Eaton handled decorations for the tables arranged in triangles. The head table featured mums, doves and candelabra. The other tables were decorated with purple, sequined tapers and gold sprayed pine. An altar replica was the focal point.

Next meeting is Jan. 15.

Chester Man Named In Area Kiwanis Post

Appointment of Lee Adams, retiring Chester Kiwanis Club president, as a district chairman was announced at a roundtable meeting of the club Tuesday night at the City Hall auditorium.

Eugene Seeley, secretary-treasurer, reported Oliver Johnson of Weirton, lieutenant governor-elect, has named Adams chairman of the support of churches committee in the 1st District for 1964.

Film Actor's Son In Drama Field Too

HONOLULU (AP) — Sheridan Morley, son of British actor Robert Morley, is working with the University of Hawaii's drama faculty as a graduate assistant.

He helped stage three plays for the formal opening of the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Theater on the campus. One of them was "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Morley was born while his famous father was playing the lead role of Sheridan Whiteside in the same play 21 years ago, which is how young Morley came by the name "Sheridan."

Pope To Meet Patriarch On 2 Occasions

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI and Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras I plan two meetings in the Holy Land, unofficial Vatican sources said Tuesday.

There were varying versions of the dates and sites.

The informants agreed, however, the first meeting and perhaps both will be held at the Mount of Olives in Old Jerusalem, where Christ prayed before His crucifixion. Some believed the second meeting may be at Bethlehem, Christ's birthplace.

Official Vatican spokesmen had no details on that phase of the pilgrimages this weekend by the Roman Catholic pontiff and the spiritual leader of the Orthodox, whose churches together have 700 million members.

The unofficial sources said the Pope and patriarch will meet Saturday or Sunday night and again Monday, the Roman Catholic Feast of the Ephiphany and Christmas Eve for the Orthodox in Jerusalem.

Pope Paul and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul) will be staying in dwellings just 500 yards apart on the Mount of Olives.

The last time a Pope and a patriarch met was in the 15th century, when Patriarch Joseph of Constantinople attended the Council of Florence and saw Pope Eugene IV. The East-West Church split became final a few years later, in 1472.

The only official statement so far on the meeting between the two Church leaders came Monday from Istanbul. The Orthodox patriarchate there said simply that Athenagoras and Paul would meet on the Mount of Olives.

Driver's Hearing Set In Salineville Wreck

SALINEVILLE — A hearing is slated Saturday before Mayor Stanley Fitch for Lloyd Weaver, 44, of 181 E. Main St., whose station wagon rammed a parked auto on W. Main St. Monday night.

Police Chief Roy Lewis said Weaver's 1959 vehicle struck the rear of a parked 1954 sedan owned by Mrs. Eileen Leishman of West End, demolishing the car.

Weaver's vehicle received about $400 damage. Weaver, charged with speed in excess of safe road conditions, said his car skidded on an icy patch.

The Bethel Choir was comprised of Pamela Thrasher, Linda Martin, Miss Reeder, Judith Althar, Jane Althar, Kay Simpson, Junifer Koerber, Cindy Wilkinson, Carol Jack, Linda Jones, Judy Ibbs, Anna McDowell, Janet Andrews, Linda Haney, Barbara Haught, Carol Kidd, Janice Martin, Becky Simms, Jackie Darrah, Cheryl Rice and Vickie Edgell.

Committees named were Mary O'Neill and Mary Hoffman, proficiency; Mrs. Clara Young, Debbie Banfield and Nancy Doland, social; Mrs. Grace Hoffman, Judith Althar and Jane Althar, pledge; Mrs. Martha Underwood, Vicki Deshler and Terry Looman, paraphernalia; Anne McDowell and Becky Simms, sunshine, and Miss Eaton, Carolee Turner, Barbara Eason, Kathy Blackburn and Vicki Deshler, telephone.

A reception followed in the grillroom under the supervision of Mrs. Young. Mrs. Aaron Eaton handled decorations for the tables arranged in triangles. The head table featured mums, doves and candelabra. The other tables were decorated with purple, sequined tapers and gold sprayed pine. An altar replica was the focal point.

Next meeting is Jan. 15.

Chester Man Named In Area Kiwanis Post

Appointment of Lee Adams, retiring Chester Kiwanis Club president, as a district chairman was announced at a roundtable meeting of the club Tuesday night at the City Hall auditorium.

Eugene Seeley, secretary-treasurer, reported Oliver Johnson of Weirton, lieutenant governor-elect, has named Adams chairman of the support of churches committee in the 1st District for 1964.

Film Actor's Son In Drama Field Too

HONOLULU (AP) — Sheridan Morley, son of British actor Robert Morley, is working with the University of Hawaii's drama faculty as a graduate assistant.

He helped stage three plays for the formal opening of the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Theater on the campus. One of them was "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Morley was born while his famous father was playing the lead role of Sheridan Whiteside in the same play 21 years ago, which is how young Morley came by the name "Sheridan."

Pope To Meet Patriarch On 2 Occasions

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI and Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras I plan two meetings in the Holy Land, unofficial Vatican sources said Tuesday.

There were varying versions of the dates and sites.

The informants agreed, however, the first meeting and perhaps both will be held at the Mount of Olives in Old Jerusalem, where Christ prayed before His crucifixion. Some believed the second meeting may be at Bethlehem, Christ's birthplace.

Official Vatican spokesmen had no details on that phase of the pilgrimages this weekend by the Roman Catholic pontiff and the spiritual leader of the Orthodox, whose churches together have 700 million members.

The unofficial sources said the Pope and patriarch will meet Saturday or Sunday night and again Monday, the Roman Catholic Feast of the Ephiphany and Christmas Eve for the Orthodox in Jerusalem.

Pope Paul and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul) will be staying in dwellings just 500 yards apart on the Mount of Olives.

The last time a Pope and a patriarch met was in the 15th century, when Patriarch Joseph of Constantinople attended the Council of Florence and saw Pope Eugene IV. The East-West Church split became final a few years later, in 1472.

The only official statement so far on the meeting between the two Church leaders came Monday from Istanbul. The Orthodox patriarchate there said simply that Athenagoras and Paul would meet on the Mount of Olives.

Driver's Hearing Set In Salineville Wreck

SALINEVILLE — A hearing is slated Saturday before Mayor Stanley Fitch for Lloyd Weaver, 44, of 181 E. Main St., whose station wagon rammed a parked auto on W. Main St. Monday night.

Police Chief Roy Lewis said Weaver's 1959 vehicle struck the rear of a parked 1954 sedan owned by Mrs. Eileen Leishman of West End, demolishing the car.

Weaver's vehicle received about $400 damage. Weaver, charged with speed in excess of safe road conditions, said his car skidded on an icy patch.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: Let's discuss condensation in our homes and trying to keep moisture from condensing on our window panes.

So many ideas have come in. Such as installing expensive systems, opening windows, putting up storm windows, etc.

But here's something which costs nothing, is quick and easy too. Use the plastic garment bags that come from the cleaners! After all we have paid for them, so why not utilize 'em?

Windows come in different sizes. If your window screens (and mine do) will fit into one of these bags — plop it in! I find they are excellent when used to cover the screens which go on the outside of our windows. Just have your husband "sack" it, gals, as if he were bagging groceries, and replace on window.

Now if that bag is not big enough you take a pair of scissors and cut it open on one side, cover your screen and tape it on the edges.

When you have two sheets of plastic on that window screen it's twice as good as one!

If you've got any more ideas like this send them to Heloise. Letters do not have to be signed to appear.

DEAR HELOISE: When cutting hard-boiled eggs in half, I always dip my knife in boiling hot water first. This makes the most beautiful slice you have ever seen.

HELEN.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I have found that in filling any canister, if put on a piece of waxed paper before filling . . . anythingthat spills can easily be transferred back into the canister by picking up the paper and tilting it into a V shape. Nothing is wasted this way.

MRS. C. SIMS.

DEAR HELOISE: When cooking fresh green beans I can remove the strings easily by pouring boiling water over them and letting them sit for five minutes. Then I drain the water off and peel the strings.

This is especially good for people who can beans or have large families. Isn't it a shame we waste the hours we do preparing fresh green beans only to find some of them stringy and not edible?

Wellsville Fire Chief's Condition Seen Unchanged

Wellsville Fire Chief Robert Lewis, seriously injured in a weekend sledding accident, remained about the same Tuesday at the Lake County Memorial Hospital, West, at Willoughby.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis, his wife, notified Asst. Chief Robert Lloyd late Tuesday afternoon that Lewis would be able to be moved from the hospital in three weeks, barring complications.

Lewis is being kept under constant sedation because of the severe pain.

He will have to be fitted with a brace before he can be brought home.

Lewis was riding the toboggan on a rolling golf course with the children. As they went over one small rise, Lewis felt something snap in his back and rolled off. He was then taken to the hospital.

Hoffa Denies Deal Plot In Court Cases

DETROIT (AP) — Teamsters President James Hoffa denied today that anyone representing him had been authorized to approach the government to make a deal in his behalf in federal court cases pending against him.

In an interview recorded by station WWJ-TV in Detroit, Hoffa asserted that "people representing the federal government" had approached him in the past to make "arrangements."

Hoffa said the "arrangements" involved him and several aides leaving office in return for the government dropping grand jury action.

"We refused to do it," Hoffa said.

Hoffa and six others are charged with tampering with a Tennessee federal court jury. He also has been indicted with seven others in Chicago on charges of conspiracy to fraudulently obtain $20 million in teamster funds.

A story in St. Louis Post-Dispatch said Hoffa reportedly instigated the proposal in which he would have quit his job and resigned union membership, but the government rejected the bid.

Area Ceramists To Meet Jan. 14

The Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society will meet Tuesday night, Jan. 14, at Stouffer's Restaurant in the Oakland section of Pittsburgh.

Guest speaker will be C. G. Bigelow Jr., vice president and research director of the Selas Corp. of America at Dresher, Pa. His subject will be "A Research Director Looks at Heat Processing Problems."

Bigelow was graduated from Purdue University in 1938 with a degree in mechanical engineering. He later did graduate work at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

He has been associated with Selas Corp. for five years. He formerly was with the American Machine & Foundry Co. of New York City and the Loftus Engineering Co. of Pittsburgh.

J. T. Markham of Pittsburgh is chairman of the section. J. E. Wilson of E. J. Lavino & Co. in the Oliver Building at Pittsburgh is in charge of reservations.

Sympathy Notes Sent To Jackie Total 700,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has received some 700,000 messages of sympathy, a volume of mail so high volunteers have stepped in to help handle it.

Some 45 volunteers were at work today, helping the four members of Mrs. Kennedy's staff. They included many of her friends, a group from the National Council of Jewish Women and wives of foreign service officials.

"Right now we're sorting all the mail to see what we have," said one of the staff. "Every letter gets read."

Some are requests for Mrs. Kennedy to speak or be honored somewhere. These are being answered as they are opened.

The requests are declined, for Mrs. Kennedy is observing a year of mourning and making no public engagements during that time.

Some of the mail has been forwarded to Mrs. Kennedy, who is at Palm Beach, Fla., for the holidays.

Referendum Slated To Seek More Power

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah announced Tuesday night a national referendum will be held to find out whether Ghanaians will agree to give him greater powers.

In a broadcast, Nkrumah said he was asking the nation to agree to amendments to the constitution, which would make his Convention People's party the only national party of Ghana.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a group of us were discussing your column on tipping. What started out to be a very pleasant conversation turned into a fierce clash of opinions.

A man whom all of us consider intelligent (sophisticated, too) said that tipping was a symptom of insecurity and that people who are sure of themselves don't find it necessary to tip. He further declared that tipping is a subtle way of buying homage from inferiors.

His last statement shocked me and I would like to know if you agree. If you do not agree, please take him apart in your column. Thank you. — ALL EARS.

Dear Ears: Tipping should be a reward for special service. Unfortunately it has become a built-in custom and more often than not it is expected, regardless of the quality of the service.

I have said it before and I will say it again: It would be infinitely more equitable if employers in the service industry paid their employes a living wage instead of passing on the responsibility to the customers.

The notion that "homage" can be bought with a tip is absurd. And the theory that people whose livelihood depends on tips are inferior is absolutely revolting.

Headstrong Teen-Ager

Dear Ann: Please print this letter. It may shake up some teen-agers who will not listen to their parents.

For two years I dated a divorced man who had three children. I was only 17 when I began to date Manny, but I was sure I had twice as many brains as both my parents put together.

Manny's wife got custody of their three girls. I married him against everyone's advice and now we have a baby of our own. We fight constantly about his going over to see the girls. We have no money for the bare necessities, yet he is always buying ridiculous gifts for his daughters.

My parents pretend not to see how miserable I am. Every time they come over they slip me a few dollars "for the baby's bank." I'm sure they know I'm buying milk and food with that money.

I'd give anything if I could turn back the clock a couple of years but since that is impossible I would like to tell other kids to slow up and take some of the good advice their parents have to offer.—THE STRONG-HEAD.

Dear Stoong-Head: Here's your letter. Are you listening, Students?

Dear Ann: About three years ago my husband was involved in a scandalous financial mess. He was found innocent but his picture was in the paper a great deal during those terrible months and it made a strong impact on the community.

There are five or six people in our crowd who bring up the past regularly. My husband goes into a cold sweat whenever the subject is raised and I find it terribly humiliating.

I would appreciate it if you would give me a few sample sentences to shut these people up—once and for all. Thank you in advance.—INNOCENT BUT SUFFERING.

Dear Innocent But Suffering: You don't need sample sentences—you need new friends. Anyone who would be so thoughtless and unkind as to attempt to reopen the old wounds and sprinkle them with salt is not worthy of your friendship. You and your husband long since should have dropped these clods.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rockefellers Expect Child In Early June

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Tuesday they are expecting the birth of a child in June.

It said simply:

Beaver Fund Balance High

BEAVER — Beaver County closed its financial books Tuesday after reporting healthy reserves of $2,131,931 at the close of business Monday and County Controller James F. Tress said that financially, the county ended 1963 in "good condition."

He also pointed out the county operated $327,622 below its estimated 1963 budget of $4,440,777.

Expenditures as of Monday were $4,113,155, and as of Dec. 23, the county had receipts of $5,286,043 from all sources such as taxes and state and federal reimbursements.

The capital improvement fund included $650,000 in investments and $46,931 in cash, and in the General Fund, $225,000 in cash and $1,200,000 in investments.

Much of the general fund investments will be transfered to the reserve capital improvement fund to cover projects now under way or pending.

Earmarked for some of the funds are the first and second additions to the County Home and Hospital, furnishings for these additions, a swimming pool at Economy Park, new corridor lighting and a new front entrance and walks at the Courthouse, with others pending.

Gen. Greene Assumes Command Of Marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. David M. Shoup turned over command of the Marines to Lt. Gen. Wallace M. Greene Tuesday and bade farewell to the corps with a "well done for the past, good luck for the future."

Shoup, who won the Medal of Honor at Tarawa, ended four years as Marine Commandant in a change of command and retirement ceremony at the historic Marine barracks.

For the colorful 59 - year - old Shoup, it was the end of a career spanning 33 years and including some of the heaviest fighting in the Pacific in World War II.

Fro the 56-year-old Greene, it was the start of a four - year term as the 23rd commandant of the Marine Corps. Wednesday he pins on his fourth star as a full general.

Rep. Martin To Leave Hospital On Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., R-Mass., probably will leave the Bethesda Naval Hospital Friday, aides said today.

Martin, former speaker and long-time Republican leader in the House, went to the hospital last week for treatment of a virus infection.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a group of us were discussing your column on tipping. What started out to be a very pleasant conversation turned into a fierce clash of opinions.

A man whom all of us consider intelligent (sophisticated, too) said that tipping was a symptom of insecurity and that people who are sure of themselves don't find it necessary to tip. He further declared that tipping is a subtle way of buying homage from inferiors.

His last statement shocked me and I would like to know if you agree. If you do not agree, please take him apart in your column. Thank you. — ALL EARS.

Dear Ears: Tipping should be a reward for special service. Unfortunately it has become a built-in custom and more often than not it is expected, regardless of the quality of the service.

I have said it before and I will say it again: It would be infinitely more equitable if employers in the service industry paid their employes a living wage instead of passing on the responsibility to the customers.

The notion that "homage" can be bought with a tip is absurd. And the theory that people whose livelihood depends on tips are inferior is absolutely revolting.

Headstrong Teen-Ager

Dear Ann: Please print this letter. It may shake up some teen-agers who will not listen to their parents.

For two years I dated a divorced man who had three children. I was only 17 when I began to date Manny, but I was sure I had twice as many brains as both my parents put together.

Manny's wife got custody of their three girls. I married him against everyone's advice and now we have a baby of our own. We fight constantly about his going over to see the girls. We have no money for the bare necessities, yet he is always buying ridiculous gifts for his daughters.

My parents pretend not to see how miserable I am. Every time they come over they slip me a few dollars "for the baby's bank." I'm sure they know I'm buying milk and food with that money.

I'd give anything if I could turn back the clock a couple of years but since that is impossible I would like to tell other kids to slow up and take some of the good advice their parents have to offer.—THE STRONG-HEAD.

Dear Stoong-Head: Here's your letter. Are you listening, Students?

Dear Ann: About three years ago my husband was involved in a scandalous financial mess. He was found innocent but his picture was in the paper a great deal during those terrible months and it made a strong impact on the community.

There are five or six people in our crowd who bring up the past regularly. My husband goes into a cold sweat whenever the subject is raised and I find it terribly humiliating.

I would appreciate it if you would give me a few sample sentences to shut these people up—once and for all. Thank you in advance.—INNOCENT BUT SUFFERING.

Dear Innocent But Suffering: You don't need sample sentences—you need new friends. Anyone who would be so thoughtless and unkind as to attempt to reopen the old wounds and sprinkle them with salt is not worthy of your friendship. You and your husband long since should have dropped these clods.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Most Rollicking Since Wall Was Built

Berliners 'Live It Up' In Celebrating New Year

BERLIN (AP) — Berliners drank out the old year Tuesday night in their most rollicking mood since Communists built the wall that split the city and many of its families 28 months ago.

Armed with permits granted by the Communist regime, 56,587 West Berliners poured through five temporary holes in the wall to celebrate with their relatives and friends in the East sector.

The whisky-vodka parties were symptomatic of the strong feeling of East-West relaxation induced by the reunions in this city, so long divided by the cold war.

West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt summed up the feeling this way in an article written for the New Year edition of the independent West Berlin Telegraf: "In the last weeks the whole world has seen that despite the wall and barbed wire, we Berliners have remained one family."

The Socialist leader said the temporary arrangement for visits by West Berliners to the East sector had "given birth to a step of practical movement as well as strong moral and spiritual energy."

He promised to try to get the deadline for the visitors' permits extended beyond Jan. 5, when the present arrangement is scheduled to end. But he said that, as before, there would be no bowing to Red blackmail.

Brandt's critics in the German press suggest that he already has gone too far in recognizing the Red regime, which wants to promote its theory of West Berlin's separation from the West.

In evident answer to this, Brandt said that "We will continue to call injustice, and we will not whitewash Communist practice."

Widow Says Oswald Took Part In Walker Shooting

DALLAS (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald's widow has confirmed that her husband told her he was implicated in the shooting at former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, her business adviser said today.

Mrs. Marina Oswald also confirmed a report that Oswald left her a note of instructions the day a sniper shot at Walker. Oswald's note said he might be arrested.

Jim Martin, the business adviser, said she gave the following account of what happened last April 10, the day a high-powered rifle bullet barely missed Walker in his home:

Oswald left their home early in the evening, not saying where he was going. He hadn't returned at 11 p.m., and Mrs. Oswald began to worry.

Then she discovered a note from her husband, written in Russian, in her bedroom. Oswald's note said he might be gone for some time, or he might be arrested. It told her the location of the county jail in Dallas and gave the number of Oswald's post office box, along with the key.

It said he was expecting a check from a former employer (apparently a coffee company in New Orleans where Oswald worked before coming to Dallas), and advised her how to get in touch with the Soviet consul.

Oswald finally returned, very late. He was white and shaken.

Under questioning from his wife, he said he was involved in an attempt to shoot Walker.

After an all-night argument, he promised he never would do such a thing again. Mrs. Oswald told him she had hidden the note and would turn it over to the police if he ever failed to keep his promise.

She had secreted the note in a cookbook. The FBI took possession of it shortly after Oswald was arrested Nov. 22 in the assassination of President Kennedy. Oswald himself was later slain.

Martin said today that Mrs. Oswald believes her husband was just sick, something was wrong with him."

The shot was fired through a window of Walker's home.

The bullet narrowly missed Walker and imbedded itself in a wall. Police said a slight movement of Walker's head possibly saved his life.

Jim Martin, the business adviser, said she gave the following account of what happened last April 10, the day a high-powered rifle bullet barely missed Walker in his home:

Oswald left their home early in the evening, not saying where he was going. He hadn't returned at 11 p.m., and Mrs. Oswald began to worry.

Then she discovered a note from her husband, written in Russian, in her bedroom. Oswald's note said he might be gone for some time, or he might be arrested. It told her the location of the county jail in Dallas and gave the number of Oswald's post office box, along with the key.

It said he was expecting a check from a former employer (apparently a coffee company in New Orleans where Oswald worked before coming to Dallas), and advised her how to get in touch with the Soviet consul.

Oswald finally returned, very late. He was white and shaken.

Under questioning from his wife, he said he was involved in an attempt to shoot Walker.

After an all-night argument, he promised he never would do such a thing again. Mrs. Oswald told him she had hidden the note and would turn it over to the police if he ever failed to keep his promise.

She had secreted the note in a cookbook. The FBI took possession of it shortly after Oswald was arrested Nov. 22 in the assassination of President Kennedy. Oswald himself was later slain.

Martin said today that Mrs. Oswald believes her husband was just sick, something was wrong with him."

The shot was fired through a window of Walker's home.

330,000 Fans Expected To Watch Major Bowl Games; Donnelly's Injury Hangs Heavy For Navy In Cotton

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The tickets have been sold and the coaches' tears have been shed and now eight fine college football teams—all but one ranked among the national Top Ten in the regular season—are ready for the New Year's Day bowl games.

Two teams, Navy and Washington, have reported player injuries that might hamper their offensive efforts Wednesday, but until the games actually start, it won't be known whether the coaches have exaggerated these reports for psychological reasons. At any rate, all eight coaches have virtually guaranteed all-out offensive shows for the 330,000 fans who are expected to pack the stadiums at Dallas, Miami, New Orleans and Pasadena, Calif.

Here is the line-up, with season records, national rankings, expected attendance and television coverage (Eastern Standard Time):

COTTON BOWL—Texas, 10-0 and No. 1 vs. Navy, 9-1, No. 2, 75,504 CBS 1:45 p.m.

ORANGE BOWL — Auburn, 9-1, No. 5, vs. Nebraska, 9-1, No. 6 ABC, 72,600, 1:45 p.m.

ROSE BOWL—Illinois, 7-1-1, No. 3, vs. Washington, 6-4, unranked, 100,000, NBC 4:45 p.m.

SUGAR BOWL — Mississippi, 7-0-2, No. 7, vs. Alabama, 8-2, No. 8, 82,500, NBC 1:45 p.m.

Although an injury to fullback Pat Donnelly may have dimmed Navy's chances of jolting Texas, the Cotton Bowl promoters figure they still have the best attraction in the game's 28 years. It is the first Dallas match-up of the No. 1 and No. 2 teams and Navy is eager to show the voters were wrong when they made Texas the 1963 national champion.

Coach Wayne Hardin has said Donnelly likely will start and continue as long as he is able. That is because the No. 2 fullback, Nick Markoff, has been troubled by a similar injury. Texas coach Darrell Royal said he won't know until game time whether center and co-captain David McWilliams will be available. He was called home because of the death of his mother.

Washington's injured man, fullback Junior Coffey, has been hobbling about on a bad foot for some time. While he may play some, Coach Jim Owens insists that the fans in the Rose Bowl will see a lot of Charlie Browning and Mike Kuklenski, his replacements.

Washington's 6-4 record is a poor one for a bowl team and Illinois Coach Pete Elliott has been careful to guard against overconfidence in his team, which has had little chance for outdoor practice. The Illini are at full strength although guard Glynn Stewart has a sore shoulder and linebacker Don Hansen has just recovered from a sprained ankle.

The Orange Bowl and Sugar Bowl teams haven't reported any injuries of importance. The Auburn-Nebraska game at Miami promises a duel between two quarterbacks who excel at pass-run option plays, Jimmy Sidle of Auburn and Dennis Claridge of Nebraska. Auburn is counting on Sidle's deception and daring to offset Nebraska's superior size.

The Sugar Bowl coaches, Johnny Vaught of Mississippi and Bear Bryant of Alabama, expect their teams to rely mainly on passes to score. Bama's quarterbacks, Steve Sloan and Jack Hurlbert, threw only 16 passes during the regular season while Mississippi's Perry Lee Dunn and Jim Weatherly completed 103. But the Alabama pair didn't get much chance until Joe Namath, the regular quarterback, was suspended late in the season for disciplinary reasons.

Several of the players will go from Wednesday's games to the Senior Bowl game at Mobile, Ala., Saturday afternoon. That and the Hula Bowl at Honolulu, also on Saturday, wind up the college part of the post-season program. The pros will continue longer with the American Football League's championship game at San Diego and the National League's Playoff Bowl at Miami Sunday, the NFL Pro Bowl at Los Angeles Jan. 12 and the AFL All-Star Game at San Diego Jan. 19.

Backyard Rivalries Feature Local Card

Several backyard rivalries will open the new year for local high school basketball teams this weekend.

Oak Glen, the new consolidation in Hancock County, provides the East Liverpool Potters with some new local competition. The Golden Bears, unsuccessful in four games so far this season, will invade Memorial Auditorium Friday night.

Meanwhile, Coach Jim Harris' Potters will open the 1964 half of the campaign with a 2-4 record. East Liverpool visits Youngstown South Saturday.

Oak Glen, a team with some potential and good bench strength, dropped its opener to Weirton, then lost close battles to Triadelphia and Wellsville. Wellsburg also owns a victory over the Bears.

Wellsville will slip down Route 7 to meet neighboring Toronto Friday night. The Tigers will have their hands full Saturday when Midland comes busting into Beacom Memorial Gym.

Oak Glen To Visit ELHS Friday

The Leopards will be meeting Western Beaver for the first time Friday night at Midland. The game will be a Section 8 tilt since the new school located near Ohioview became a member of that league this season.

Coach Hank Kuzma's team, fresh from capturing its third straight Midland Holiday Tournament, will be after its ninth straight victory of the season and its fourth Section win.

Beaver Local will be looking for its first win when Carrollton invades Friday night and United will be entertaining Malvern. Stanton Local will play host to Wintersville and South Side, on its way to one of its better campaigns, will await the invasion of Snowden Twp.

The Tri-County card is full with Leetonia, featuring George Zeppernick & Co. invading East Palestine. Columbiana, one of the powers in the Tri-County League goes to Sebring and undefeated Lisbon hosts Louisville.

Southern Local and United collide at Hanoverton while East Palestine visits Columbiana and Lisbon travels to Leetonia.

In a Big 8 contest, Alliance will be at Salem.

Some Remarks That Backfired

"We believe defense will be the key to the game," he said of the Rose Bowl contest with Wisconsin. "And we think we have a very good defense.

USC defeated Wisconsin 42-37.

Before this year in sports ended, McKay had a lot of company on the ground with other personages whose words didn't pan out.

The Baltimore Evening Sun in its annual publication of quotes that backfired included:

Jan. 8—Green Bay's Paul Hornung on rumors of a betting scandal in the National Football League: "I'm positive no player would be stupid enough to get mixed up with any gamblers." (Hornung and Detroit's Alex Karras were suspended April 17 for betting on league games.)

Feb. 1—Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts: "I see no reason why Dick Donovan shouldn't repeat as a 20-game winner." (Donovan won 11).

March 2 — Bill Skowron on home run hitting by his Los Angeles Dodgers: "Tommy Davis, Frank Howard, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly should hit more than 20, and I think I will, too." (Skowron hit four and Howard was the only one with more than 20).

April 4 — Woody Stephens, trainer of Never Bend: "The Kentucky Derby will be a two-horse race. After Candy Spots and my colt, you just have a bunch of horses—none in the same class with these two." Chateaugay beat 'em both.

May 7 — Ray Washburn, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, on his 5-0 record: "With this start, I think I can win 20 games." (He was beaten 11-1 that night and one month later was sent to the minors).

July 22—Floyd Patterson before his second fight with Sonny Liston: "I won't get knocked out in the first round again." (He did and only four seconds later than in their first championship match).

Nov. 12—Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi on division title hopes before a game against the Bears: "By no stretch of the imagination will this thing be decided in Chicago." (Bears won for second time and went on to become champions).

Dec. 20—Welterweight champion Emile Griffith before fighting Rubin Carter: "When I beat Rubin, I want to fight for the middleweight title. I'm not saying I'll knock him out, but I'm going after him at the first bell—and bang." (Griffith was knocked out in the first round).

Nash Nets 30 As Duke Falls, 81-79

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 10-foot set shot by 6-foot-2 Terry Mobley with seven seconds left gave top - ranked Kentucky an 81-79 victory over Duke and the championship of the Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament Tuesday.

Kentucky, after stealing the ball with less than one minute left, called time out to set its offense.

When play resumed, Randy Embry dribbled for almost one minute before feeding the ball to Mobley whose shot hit the backboard and fell into the basket.

Kentucky proved it was worthy of its No. 1 ranking by overcoming a 10 - point halftime Duke lead, 47-37.

Cotton Nash led the Wildcats with 30 points, 20 of them in Kentucky's surging second half.

Suburb Of KC Offers Field To Athletics

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Sedalia, population 23,000, has offered Charles O. Finley a playing field for his Athletics.

Finley currently is at odds with Kansas City officials on terms for renewal of his expiring lease for the Municipal Stadium there. He has rejected all offers to date.

J. R. Black, superintendent of parks for Sedalia, forwarded the invitation on behalf of the park board for the A's to use Liberty Park, site of several semi-pro and amateur games.

"Liberty Park is a good baseball field and fully capable of using the full talents of the Kansas City Athletics," Black wrote. He didn't mention the seating capacity.

Nothing was said about rental and Black added that there were a few items to be worked out, but he saw no difficulties of any kind.

Southern Methodist Victim

Oregon Quarterback Shines In 21-14 Sun Bowl Victory

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Quarterback Bob Berry passed for two touchdowns, leading Oregon to a 21-14 Sun Bowl victory over a Southern Methodist football team stricken with intestinal disorders a few hours before Tuesday's game.

Oregon built a 21-0 halftime lead on Dennis Keller's nine-yard touchdown run and a pair of scoring passes by Berry in the second quarter, 23 yards to Dick Imwalle and 20 yards to Paul Burleson.

The Mustangs were unable to penetrate the Duck defense until the final quarter.

Oregon received its first scoring opportunity early in the first quarter when H. D. Murphy intercepted an SMU pass on his own 30 and rambled 49 yards to the Mustang 21. Keller eventually went up the middle for the final nine yards on a trap play.

The second quarter belonged to Berry, who struck overland late in the quarter to give Oregon a commanding 21-0 lead. SMU could put together only one sustained drive, moving to the Oregon 17 before time ran out.

As soon as the fourth quarter got under way, SMU struck with fleet John Roderick, a sprinter on the track team who played a key role in the Mustangs early season upset of Navy, hauling in a pair of touchdown passes.

Berry was voted the game's outstanding player.

SMU's sports publicity director, Les Jordan, said several members of the squad had become nauseated or had been stricken with diarrhea during the night. Some of the players had recovered, he said, but others started getting sick Tuesday morning.

A team of three doctors, who had been with the team since Monday night, said a noon meal Monday might have been the cause.

Fair Grounds Cancels Card Due To Weather

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A heavy snowfall and freezing temperatures caused cancellation of the Fair Grounds race programs for Tuesday and Wednesday.

The track had scheduled 10 races for both days with the New Year's Day program scheduled to start at 11 a.m. EST.

However, snow began falling during the early hours Tuesday and continued throughout the day. The Weather Bureau predicted freezing temperatures or below during the night and track officials decided to cancel Wednesday's program also.

West Coast Relays Will Be Run 2 Days

Nash Nets 30 As Duke Falls, 81-79

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 10-foot set shot by 6-foot-2 Terry Mobley with seven seconds left gave top - ranked Kentucky an 81-79 victory over Duke and the championship of the Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament Tuesday.

Kentucky, after stealing the ball with less than one minute left, called time out to set its offense.

When play resumed, Randy Embry dribbled for almost one minute before feeding the ball to Mobley whose shot hit the backboard and fell into the basket.

Kentucky proved it was worthy of its No. 1 ranking by overcoming a 10 - point halftime Duke lead, 47-37.

Cotton Nash led the Wildcats with 30 points, 20 of them in Kentucky's surging second half.

Suburb Of KC Offers Field To Athletics

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Sedalia, population 23,000, has offered Charles O. Finley a playing field for his Athletics.

Finley currently is at odds with Kansas City officials on terms for renewal of his expiring lease for the Municipal Stadium there. He has rejected all offers to date.

J. R. Black, superintendent of parks for Sedalia, forwarded the invitation on behalf of the park board for the A's to use Liberty Park, site of several semi-pro and amateur games.

"Liberty Park is a good baseball field and fully capable of using the full talents of the Kansas City Athletics," Black wrote. He didn't mention the seating capacity.

Nothing was said about rental and Black added that there were a few items to be worked out, but he saw no difficulties of any kind.

Sandy Hernandez rode three winners the day Aqueduct closed New York's long racing season. But on the previous day he failed with four favorites.

Oregon Quarterback Shines In 21-14 Sun Bowl Victory

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Quarterback Bob Berry passed for two touchdowns, leading Oregon to a 21-14 Sun Bowl victory over a Southern Methodist football team stricken with intestinal disorders a few hours before Tuesday's game.

Oregon built a 21-0 halftime lead on Dennis Keller's nine-yard touchdown run and a pair of scoring passes by Berry in the second quarter, 23 yards to Dick Imwalle and 20 yards to Paul Burleson.

The Mustangs were unable to penetrate the Duck defense until the final quarter.

Oregon received its first scoring opportunity early in the first quarter when H. D. Murphy intercepted an SMU pass on his own 30 and rambled 49 yards to the Mustang 21. Keller eventually went up the middle for the final nine yards on a trap play.

The second quarter belonged to Berry, who struck overland late in the quarter to give Oregon a commanding 21-0 lead. SMU could put together only one sustained drive, moving to the Oregon 17 before time ran out.

As soon as the fourth quarter got under way, SMU struck with fleet John Roderick, a sprinter on the track team who played a key role in the Mustangs early season upset of Navy, hauling in a pair of touchdown passes.

Berry was voted the game's outstanding player.

SMU's sports publicity director, Les Jordan, said several members of the squad had become nauseated or had been stricken with diarrhea during the night. Some of the players had recovered, he said, but others started getting sick Tuesday morning.

A team of three doctors, who had been with the team since Monday night, said a noon meal Monday might have been the cause.

Kentucky School Kids Now Go For Bowling

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — In basketball - conscious Kentucky, bowling has become the major winter recreational activity for fifth and sixth grades in Hopkinsville schools.

Recreation officials said grade school basketball was dropped because it was difficult to find coaches and supervisors, enrollment varied too much among schools and crowded schedules sometimes curtailed games.

The City Recreation Department, businessmen and Parent-Teacher Association are supporting the bowling program for 300 pupils.

Fair Grounds Cancels Card Due To Weather

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A heavy snowfall and freezing temperatures caused cancellation of the Fair Grounds race programs for Tuesday and Wednesday.

The track had scheduled 10 races for both days with the New Year's Day program scheduled to start at 11 a.m. EST.

However, snow began falling during the early hours Tuesday and continued throughout the day. The Weather Bureau predicted freezing temperatures or below during the night and track officials decided to cancel Wednesday's program also.

Pitching Returns To Majors

Pitchers Checked Hitters In '63; Los Angeles Made It Unanimous

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Pitching returned to the major leagues and the emphasis was carried into a startling World Series in which the Los Angeles Dodgers practically silenced the bats of the favored New York Yankees by taking the classic in four straight.

The strike zone was raised to shoulder height but the good hurlers were the low ball pitchers such as Sandy Koufax, Whitey Ford, Warren Spahn, Camilo Pascual, Steve Barber and Juan Marichal.

TEN PITCHERS had 20 or more victories for the first time since 1951, and 23 pitchers allowed less than three earned runs per game. The American League had only four .300 hitters, the heavier hitting National League 11.

Koufax not only was top pitcher but the year's most outstanding athlete as well. He won 25 games, lost only five and struck out 15 Yankees to win the World Series opener, 5-2. He won the deciding game, 2-1, fanning eight. Each time he beat the redoubtable Ford with the winning run in the deciding game coming on an error. Yankee first baseman Joe Pepitone couldn't find Clete Boyer's throw from third base because of a white-shirted background in a cloudless Los Angeles ball park.

KOUFAX tossed a no-hitter at the Giants, set a southpaw shutout record with 11, snapped his own strikeout mark with 306 in 311 innings and had the best earned run (1.88) mark.

The Dodger southpaw won the Cy Young award and was his league's most valuable player besides being the Series hero.

The Yankees made only four runs in the classic. Johnny Podres won the second game, 4-1, and Don Drysdale won the third, 1-0.

OTHER Dodger standouts were relief pitcher Ron Perranoski, who had a 16-3 mark for 69 appearances, and Tommy Davis who hit .326 to retain the NL batting crown.

The Dodgers swept a three-game St. Louis series and won their 11th flag by six games. For skipper Walt Alston it was his fourth flag and third Series win in 10 years.

Marichal of the Giants and Houston's Don Nottebart also joined Koufax with 25 wins. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn and Cincinnati's Jim Maloney won 23 and the Cubs' Dick Ellsworth 22. For Spahn it was his 13th season in 20-win society.

THE YANKEES made a shambles of the AL race, winning by 14 games. It was their fourth straight, three of which came under Ralph Houk who became the team's general manager in favor of Yogi Berra at season's end.

Southpaw Ford led the AL in wins with 24. Behind him were young teammate Jim Bouton and Minnesota's Pascual with 21 and Baltimore's Barber and Boston's Bill Monbouquette with 20.

Mickey Mantle missed 96 games because of a broken bone in his foot but he hit .314. At season's end he underwent knee surgery.

Besides Berra, new managers were Gil Hodges in Washington, Charlie Dressen in Detroit and Hank Bauer in Baltimore.

The sport returned to one All-Star game and the NL won it, 5-3, in Cleveland.

Stan Musial retired at 42 in his 22nd year with the Cardinals and compiled a flock of hitting records while finishing a tremendous career with .331 in batting. He became a team vice president.

NATIONAL League managers screamed while 96 balks were being called during the first 122 games as against only eight in the American League. But in May the one-second stop rule in the pitching motion was discarded.

There were numerous trades with a few players swapped twice within 12 months. The Dodgers returned Bill Skowron to the AL with Washington getting the slugger two months after he received a winning World Series share of $12,794.

Harmon Killebrew of the Twins retained the AL home run title with 45. In the NL, Hank Aaron of the Braves and Willie McCovey of the Giants solved stronger pitching for 44 homers each.

Torrid Race To Begin This Week In Mid-Am

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mid-American Conference activity picks up steam this week in what is expected to be one of the most torrid basketball races in recent memory.

Toledo, Ohio University, Miami and Western Michigan are rated as the teams to beat in the rugged seven-member circuit. Bowling Green, last year's titlist, has high-scoring Howard (Butch) Komives back but is not expected to repeat.

Most of the early competition has been confined to pre-congerence tuneups against some tough opposition.

Kent State visits Toledo on New Year's night and there are three games on Saturday's card. Ohio entertains Bowling Green, Western Michigan Invades Oxford for a clash with Miami and Toledo goes against Marshall at Huntington.

Toledo started out in whirlwind style by winning its first six before bowing to strong Villanova and so-so Butler, But the Rockets, with ace Larry Jones fully recovered from a wrist injury, could take it all.

Coach Jim Snyder's Bobcats boast a 6-2 record including surprise victories over Wisconsin and St. Johns. Ohio has lost only to Army and Louisville.

The team has good balance and the attack is paced by senior Jerry Jackson and Junior Don Hilt.

Miami shows only a 6-4 mark but has been impressive, even in defeat. The Redskins extended nationally ranked Cincinnati before losing 60-56; dropped an overtime thriller to Dayton, 87-81; lost to Xavier 69-68 in the Queen City Invitational and suffered a tough 61-57 decision to Canisius in the tourney's consolation round.

Marshall lost its leading scorer from last season, Phil Carter, and is rebuilding. Kent State, with veteran Dan Norris leading the way, is improving and could cause trouble.

$726,500 Asked In Air Pollution

NEW CUMBERLAND — Civil suits asking judgments amounting to $726,500 have been filed in Hancock County Circuit Court by 23 North Weirton residents charging Weirton Steel Co. operations caused air pollution and damaged their property and health.

The suits claim red flue dust and other impurities were blown into the atmosphere by use of oxygen in the open hearth and use of steam in cleaning of the stacks.

Semi-Invalid, 71, Dies In Home Fire

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Margaret Henke, 71, a semi-invalid as the result of a stroke a few years ago, died Tuesday in a fire that was blamed on careless smoking.

Firemen were called by neighbors who saw fire at the window of the home. They found Mrs. Henke in a chair, her clothing burned off. The woman lived with a son but was alone at the time the fire broke out, firemen reported. Cigarette butts were found in an ashtray by the chair.

Limitation Of Income Urged By India Party

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Leaders of the ruling Congress party Tuesday called for the limitation of incomes and property in private hands.

The limitation would apply especially to inherited wealth and urban property, said the resolution, adopted by the working committee of Prime Minister Nehru's party. The resolution will be considered at the annual meeting of the party beginning Jan. 9.

Patriots Outdid Chargers

Boston Has Lost 2 Tough Games To Western Foe

By WALTER GRAY

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rain or shine — and the weatherman says it probably will shine—the Boston Patriots will face the threat of lightning bolts when they meet the San Diego Chargers in the American Football League title game at Balboa Stadium Sunday.

The AFL Eastern Division champions will return to the same turf where, on a sunny day last Sept. 14, they did a remarkable job of stifling San Diego's offense. But two lightning-like strikes boosted the Western Division champs to a 17-13 victory.

In a second regular season game this year, on a cold and rainy day in Boston, lighting struck the Pats again — and it gave the Chargers a 7-6 decision. Both times the Pats outdid the Chargers in everything but scoring.

In the first game, Charger quarterback Tobin Rote, the AFL's Player of the Year, completed only eight of 21 passes and the Boston line hamstrung the usually blistering San Diego ground game.

A flourish that Charger Coach Sid Gillman perfected for that first game also paid off—with a 71 - yard scoring strike. Lowe, unable to run, faked a sweep and lofted a pass to end Jerry Robinson.

A Gillman flourish also provided the pay-off in the second Charger-Patriot game. The lone San Diego score came on a screen pass from Rote to Alworth that the Chargers had not used before. Alworth had his finest day as a pro and tied an AFL record with 13 receptions.

In that game, Lowe gained no yardage and Lincoln got 36. So Lowe, who finished the season with 1,010 yards, gained only eight of them in two games against Boston.

Gillman declines to say whether he plans still more innovations for the playoff game but says the Boston defense "makes it our burden to create an offense that can go."

$726,500 Asked In Air Pollution

NEW CUMBERLAND — Civil suits asking judgments amounting to $726,500 have been filed in Hancock County Circuit Court by 23 North Weirton residents charging Weirton Steel Co. operations caused air pollution and damaged their property and health.

The Weirton group contends air pollution started from a new process in the open hearth initiated in 1957.

The suits claim red flue dust and other impurities were blown into the atmosphere by use of oxygen in the open hearth and use of steam in cleaning of the stacks.

Cited as the chief "offenders" were the short stacks on furnaces No. 1, 7 and 13. The blast furnace was also blamed.

Semi-Invalid, 71, Dies In Home Fire

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Margaret Henke, 71, a semi-invalid as the result of a stroke a few years ago, died Tuesday in a fire that was blamed on careless smoking.

Firemen were called by neighbors who saw fire at the window of the home. They found Mrs. Henke in a chair, her clothing burned off. The woman lived with a son but was alone at the time the fire broke out, firemen reported. Cigarette butts were found in an ashtray by the chair.

Limitation Of Income Urged By India Party

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Leaders of the ruling Congress party Tuesday called for the limitation of incomes and property in private hands.

The limitation would apply especially to inherited wealth and urban property, said the resolution, adopted by the working committee of Prime Minister Nehru's party. The resolution will be considered at the annual meeting of the party beginning Jan. 9.

Patriots Outdid Chargers

Boston Has Lost 2 Tough Games To Western Foe

By WALTER GRAY

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rain or shine — and the weatherman says it probably will shine—the Boston Patriots will face the threat of lightning bolts when they meet the San Diego Chargers in the American Football League title game at Balboa Stadium Sunday.

The AFL Eastern Division champions will return to the same turf where, on a sunny day last Sept. 14, they did a remarkable job of stifling San Diego's offense. But two lightning-like strikes boosted the Western Division champs to a 17-13 victory.

In a second regular season game this year, on a cold and rainy day in Boston, lighting struck the Pats again — and it gave the Chargers a 7-6 decision. Both times the Pats outdid the Chargers in everything but scoring.

In the first game, Charger quarterback Tobin Rote, the AFL's Player of the Year, completed only eight of 21 passes and the Boston line hamstrung the usually blistering San Diego ground game.

But flanker Lance Alworth caught four passes and one was good for a 43-yard San Diego touchdown.

A flourish that Charger Coach Sid Gillman perfected for that first game also paid off—with a 71 - yard scoring strike. Lowe, unable to run, faked a sweep and lofted a pass to end Jerry Robinson.

A Gillman flourish also provided the pay-off in the second Charger-Patriot game. The lone San Diego score came on a screen pass from Rote to Alworth that the Chargers had not used before. Alworth had his finest day as a pro and tied an AFL record with 13 receptions.

In that game, Lowe gained no yardage and Lincoln got 36. So Lowe, who finished the season with 1,010 yards, gained only eight of them in two games against Boston.

Gillman declines to say whether he plans still more innovations for the playoff game but says the Boston defense "makes it our burden to create an offense that can go."

The Patriots boast the AFL's best defense, but talk around the league is that the chink in it is in the secondary.

While the Patriots gave up an average of 79 yards rushing per game, their pass defense was rated fourth in the AFL and yielded 21 touchdowns.

Two Men At A Piano

Leonid Hambro, who has the round, blue eyes and innocent smile of a 3-year-old—a French aristocratic 3-year-old enjoying the tunbril ride to the guillotine—sat at one piano in Steinway Hall. At the other piano sat his Robespierre and recital companion, Victor Borge.

Alan Gill

Borge shot his cuffs, arose, walked to a commanding position between the pianos, faced his new TV director, Bill Hobin, and began the rehearsal. " 'I'm glad to be here.' Da-dimp, da-dimp, da-dimp, da-dimp. Et-cetera. 'From the New York Philharmonic,' da-dimp, "Leonid Hambro.' Then I go to my piano." He went. "I say, 'Let's play together if possible.' Da-dimp, da-dimp.' And it goes something like this.' "

THEY PLAYED something then — I forget what — just as they will play it Thursday night, on the ABC-TV special, "Victor Borge at Carnegie Hall." Hambro played the piece beautifully. Borge played it all wrong—15 funny kinds of wrong.

When it was finished, Borge stood, bowed, gestured toward his piano for applause, bowed again, milked an ovation out of the invisible audience for everyone and everything but Hambro. When Hambro stumbled sweetly forward to shake Borge's hand, Borge converted the missed handshake into another personal bow.

A moment later, Borge was strolling off into the hallway outside with a visitor. "Let's get out of here and let 'em practice," he said as he passed a cluster of musicians, "They're so lousy."

Finding an empty corner, the visitor leaned into it and asked the maestro an involved question. "That's a question?" said Borge. "Here, let me give you an answer and then you can make up a question for it." And he began talking about TV guests.

"I'M ON TV once a year only, because I'm not a machine. And what generally happens to me? Guests. They must do a spot with me—Marcel Marceau with the violin pantomime or Harmione Gingold with the cello—and then they must have another spot, just by themselves, or a sketch. And there goes one-third of my once-a-year show!

"With the commercials, 60 minutes is 51 minutes, there's no time left, and nobody's seen me since last year. But they saw my guest only three days ago on the 'Good Morning and How Do You Do Show.' It's ridiculous.

"This year I'm doing the kind of intimate show I've always hoped to do, based mostly on music, and everything integrated. None of those nuh-nuh-nuh-nuh introductions. We've got my friend, Leonid Hambro, and a young opera singer, Sergio Franchi, more music than ever and Carnegia Hall.

"I like a huge place, lots of people. I know how to pay to them and time everything: It's my speciality. I know my function and when a close-up should be.

"I also need help, because the whole thing can be killed dead by inefficiency. Last time, for Lincoln Center, we rehearsed a month. An hour before the show, the director asked, 'Where does the orchestra come in?' It was enough to ruin the whole thing and by this time I was scared. With the 'West Side Story' medley, the piano wasn't heard at all.

"That's the trouble with a one-a-year special; the director's new, the crew's different. This time, everything's working out fine."

BORGE THEN talked about his most "ardent" fans, the musicians themselves, and dropped more famous names than Danny Kaye does in his litany of Russian composers. A Viennese conductor's widow: "I regret that my husband did not live to see you." An Australian pianist: "It can happen only once in a thousand generations." Daughter of a celebrated composer: "My father is your greatest fan. He died laughing at you!" Myra Hess, standing up at his London concert and shouting: "Bravo!"

"Musicians," Borge summed up: "They just scream at me." And with great pride, he mentioned (once again) the invitation he received from the St. Louis Symphony to be its seasonal conductor. "Serious!" said Borge, as I've heard him say before. "No joke!"

And with that, he stalked back into the rehearsal hall to rib Hambro.

A Slimming Project Can Be Exciting

Ida Jean Kain

"I made just one resolution . . . that in the year 1962 I would get down to ideal weight. Honestly, in all the years I have been doing things I love to do in the way of hobbies and such, I have never done anything that gave me the fun, the deep satisfaction and downright happiness that this slimming project gave me! Let me tell you about it . . .

"SO MANY TIMES I have thought of writing to thank you for your help and to tell you about my adventures in the project of remaking myself at the age of 56. I do hope my story will help someone else...

"I am 5'2" tall, and my weight until my third child was 110 pounds. Then insidiously the pounds crept on, and though I hated it, I did nothing about it for years. At 145 pounds the doctor gave me pills to help me get started. The pounds simply rolled off, and in no time I was down to 125. That was my downfall. Reducing so fast and so easily gave me no time to re-form my eating habits, and within a year I had regained all I had lost and more besides. Well, my weight see - sawed back and forth until I was forced to keep clothes of all sizes on hand. This went on for several years.

"Finally I found myself weighing 160 pounds. To my surprise, those 160 pounds were glued right to my frame with no intentions of coming loose. In the months and years that followed I tried everything — pills, crash diets, faddy fare. I'd lose a few pounds, the discouragement would set in, followed by the 'why worry' phase. I'd tell myself I really didn't mind being fat, some people were made to be fat, others thin, and I was fat, so what! Oh, the excuses! I know them all, for I have tried to fool myself in all the ways anyone could think up. But down underneath I was not happy.

"ODD, ISN'T IT, that we can be discontented, discouraged, unhappy, yes and ashamed, yet not do anything about it! The Christmas of 1961 our children were away, so I baked cookies, cakes and made candy to send them...and I ate even more than I sent. Each day found me weighing a little more and sinking a little lower in my spirits.

"Two days before the end of the year I reached a decision. I was going to reduce, and this time I knew I really meant it. I made a plan." Tomorrow: THE PLAN.

Man In Double Road Death Gets Probation

Keith Smith was placed on five years probation in connection with a second degree manslaughter charge in the traffic deaths of John and Stella Baughey of East Liverpool on Feb. 20, 1961.

Judge Buzzard said if Smith is of good behavior for three years he will reduce the probation to three years, but he ordered Smith to surrender his driver's license to the court and not to apply for another for the next two years.

Sheep Flocks Due For Scab Eradication

LISBON — A sheep scab eradication program will be initiated in Columbiana County and all other counties in Ohio beginning Monday. All flocks will be inspected for scabies (scab) as the beginning step of an intensive program to eradicate this animal disease from Ohio, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

John Raley of Lisbon R. D. 5 has been selected as the technician to inspect all sheep in the county, having received training from the State Department of Agriculture. All flocks will remain under quarantine until they have been inspected and declared "clean" by the technician. "Suspicious" flocks will be re-checked by area state veterinarians. If found infected, they will be treated before the quarantine on them can be lifted.

Sheep scab, sometimes called scabies, is highly infectious. It is caused by a tiny parasite which burrows into the skin. Infected sheep rub themselves and pull at their wool to relieve irritation and itching. Hard scabs form in the infected areas and the sheep lose condition rapidly.

The disease is not widespread in Ohio, but is a constant problem due to its infectious nature. Authorities estimate every infected flock in the state cost the Ohio sheep industry $20,000 a year.

All sheep in the state will be under quarantine until inspected.. During this eradication and quarantine period, sheep may be shipped within the state only when accompanied by a certificate of inspection, unless such sheep are consigned directly to a licensed livestock yard or slaughtering establishment. All sheep consigned to a livestock yard will be inspected by a state or federal agent at the yard.

The eradication program is being conducted by representatives of the sheep industry in co-operation with the Division of Animal Industry of Ohio, the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

To Be Full General

OTTAWA (AP) — Governor-General Georges Philias Vanier will have the rank of full general from the first of the new year, Canada's Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Defense Minister Paul T. Hellyer have announced. The noted career diplomat's present rank is major-general.

New Ohio Municipal Judges Begin Terms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Full-time judges in 10 new municipal courts created by the last legislature, start their terms today.

The judges were elected last Nov. 5.

The new courts were created by an emergency enactment by the legislature effective last July 11. New municipal courts were created in Campbell, and Struthers, Mahoning County; Chardon, Geauga County; Girard and Newton Falls, Trumbull County; Marysville, Union County; Maumee, Oregon and Sylvania, Lucas County, and Napoleon, Henry County.

To Discuss Dispute

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A special seven-nation committee mediating the Algerian-Moroccan border dispute in the Sahara will meet again Jan. 23 in Mali, Morocco government sources have disclosed.

THEY PLAYED something then — I forget what — just as they will play it Thursday night, on the ABC-TV special, "Victor Borge at Carnegie Hall." Hambro played the piece beautifully. Borge played it all wrong—15 funny kinds of wrong.

When it was finished, Borge stood, bowed, gestured toward his piano for applause, bowed again, milked an ovation out of the invisible audience for everyone and everything but Hambro. When Hambro stumbled sweetly forward to shake Borge's hand, Borge converted the missed handshake into another personal bow.

A moment later, Borge was strolling off into the hallway outside with a visitor. "Let's get out of here and let 'em practice," he said as he passed a cluster of musicians, "They're so lousy."

Circumnavigating another hall where a coloratura was booming through an aria, Borge commented: "Oh, shut up!"

Finding an empty corner, the visitor leaned into it and asked the maestro an involved question. "That's a question?" said Borge. "Here, let me give you an answer and then you can make up a question for it." And he began talking about TV guests.

"I'M ON TV once a year only, because I'm not a machine. And what generally happens to me? Guests. They must do a spot with me—Marcel Marceau with the violin pantomime or Harmione Gingold with the cello—and then they must have another spot, just by themselves, or a sketch. And there goes one-third of my once-a-year show!

"With the commercials, 60 minutes is 51 minutes, there's no time left, and nobody's seen me since last year. But they saw my guest only three days ago on the 'Good Morning and How Do You Do Show.' It's ridiculous.

"This year I'm doing the kind of intimate show I've always hoped to do, based mostly on music, and everything integrated. None of those nuh-nuh-nuh-nuh introductions. We've got my friend, Leonid Hambro, and a young opera singer, Sergio Franchi, more music than ever and Carnegia Hall.

"I like a huge place, lots of people. I know how to pay to them and time everything: It's my speciality. I know my function and when a close-up should be.

"I also need help, because the whole thing can be killed dead by inefficiency. Last time, for Lincoln Center, we rehearsed a month. An hour before the show, the director asked, 'Where does the orchestra come in?' It was enough to ruin the whole thing and by this time I was scared. With the 'West Side Story' medley, the piano wasn't heard at all.

"That's the trouble with a one-a-year special; the director's new, the crew's different. This time, everything's working out fine."

BORGE THEN talked about his most "ardent" fans, the musicians themselves, and dropped more famous names than Danny Kaye does in his litany of Russian composers. A Viennese conductor's widow: "I regret that my husband did not live to see you." An Australian pianist: "It can happen only once in a thousand generations." Daughter of a celebrated composer: "My father is your greatest fan. He died laughing at you!" Myra Hess, standing up at his London concert and shouting: "Bravo!"

"Musicians," Borge summed up: "They just scream at me." And with great pride, he mentioned (once again) the invitation he received from the St. Louis Symphony to be its seasonal conductor. "Serious!" said Borge, as I've heard him say before. "No joke!"

And with that, he stalked back into the rehearsal hall to rib Hambro.

Airman Discharged Served In Aleutians

Airman 2C Richard W. Stacey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Stacey of the Bloomfield Rd., has returned home after discharge from the Air Force, following 42 months service, including the past year at Shemya Air Force Base in the Aleutians. He served in aircraft crash rescue.

A 1960 graduate of Beaver Local High School, he completed three college courses while in the service. He has two brothers in uniform, S.Sgt. Charles Stacey at McCoy Air Force Base at Orlando, Fla., and Spcl. 5C Roy T. Stacey Jr. in the Army at Ft. Knox.

Keep In Trim

A Slimming Project Can Be Exciting

Enthusiasm is a great hill climber. Fortunately, it's contagious. Catch that quickening of the spirit from the homemaker in today's story who turned slimming into an exciting project.

Ida Jean Kain

"I made just one resolution . . . that in the year 1962 I would get down to ideal weight. Honestly, in all the years I have been doing things I love to do in the way of hobbies and such, I have never done anything that gave me the fun, the deep satisfaction and downright happiness that this slimming project gave me! Let me tell you about it . . .

"SO MANY TIMES I have thought of writing to thank you for your help and to tell you about my adventures in the project of remaking myself at the age of 56. I do hope my story will help someone else...

"I am 5'2" tall, and my weight until my third child was 110 pounds. Then insidiously the pounds crept on, and though I hated it, I did nothing about it for years. At 145 pounds the doctor gave me pills to help me get started. The pounds simply rolled off, and in no time I was down to 125. That was my downfall. Reducing so fast and so easily gave me no time to re-form my eating habits, and within a year I had regained all I had lost and more besides. Well, my weight see - sawed back and forth until I was forced to keep clothes of all sizes on hand. This went on for several years.

"Finally I found myself weighing 160 pounds. To my surprise, those 160 pounds were glued right to my frame with no intentions of coming loose. In the months and years that followed I tried everything — pills, crash diets, faddy fare. I'd lose a few pounds, the discouragement would set in, followed by the 'why worry' phase. I'd tell myself I really didn't mind being fat, some people were made to be fat, others thin, and I was fat, so what! Oh, the excuses! I know them all, for I have tried to fool myself in all the ways anyone could think up. But down underneath I was not happy.

"ODD, ISN'T IT, that we can be discontented, discouraged, unhappy, yes and ashamed, yet not do anything about it! The Christmas of 1961 our children were away, so I baked cookies, cakes and made candy to send them...and I ate even more than I sent. Each day found me weighing a little more and sinking a little lower in my spirits.

"Two days before the end of the year I reached a decision. I was going to reduce, and this time I knew I really meant it. I made a plan." Tomorrow: THE PLAN.

Man In Double Road Death Gets Probation

Keith Smith was placed on five years probation in connection with a second degree manslaughter charge in the traffic deaths of John and Stella Baughey of East Liverpool on Feb. 20, 1961.

Smith, who was also injured severely, pleaded guilty and requested probation on June 11.

The accident happened on Route 30. Mrs. Baughey was killed almost instantly and her husband expired the next day.

Judge Buzzard said if Smith is of good behavior for three years he will reduce the probation to three years, but he ordered Smith to surrender his driver's license to the court and not to apply for another for the next two years.

Sheep Flocks Due For Scab Eradication

LISBON — A sheep scab eradication program will be initiated in Columbiana County and all other counties in Ohio beginning Monday. All flocks will be inspected for scabies (scab) as the beginning step of an intensive program to eradicate this animal disease from Ohio, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

John Raley of Lisbon R. D. 5 has been selected as the technician to inspect all sheep in the county, having received training from the State Department of Agriculture. All flocks will remain under quarantine until they have been inspected and declared "clean" by the technician. "Suspicious" flocks will be re-checked by area state veterinarians. If found infected, they will be treated before the quarantine on them can be lifted.

Sheep scab, sometimes called scabies, is highly infectious. It is caused by a tiny parasite which burrows into the skin. Infected sheep rub themselves and pull at their wool to relieve irritation and itching. Hard scabs form in the infected areas and the sheep lose condition rapidly.

The disease is not widespread in Ohio, but is a constant problem due to its infectious nature. Authorities estimate every infected flock in the state cost the Ohio sheep industry $20,000 a year.

All sheep in the state will be under quarantine until inspected.. During this eradication and quarantine period, sheep may be shipped within the state only when accompanied by a certificate of inspection, unless such sheep are consigned directly to a licensed livestock yard or slaughtering establishment. All sheep consigned to a livestock yard will be inspected by a state or federal agent at the yard.

The eradication program is being conducted by representatives of the sheep industry in co-operation with the Division of Animal Industry of Ohio, the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agrierature and the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

To Be Full General

OTTAWA (AP) — Governor-General Georges Philias Vanier will have the rank of full general from the first of the new year, Canada's Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Defense Minister Paul T. Hellyer have announced. The noted career diplomat's present rank is major-general.

New Ohio Municipal Judges Begin Terms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Full-time judges in 10 new municipal courts created by the last legislature, start their terms today.

The judges were elected last Nov. 5.

An 11th court created in Bryan will begin operation Jan. 1, 1965, after election of a judge next Nov. 3.

The new courts were created by an emergency enactment by the legislature effective last July 11. New municipal courts were created in Campbell, and Struthers, Mahoning County; Chardon, Geauga County; Girard and Newton Falls, Trumbull County; Marysville, Union County; Maumee, Oregon and Sylvania, Lucas County, and Napoleon, Henry County.

To Discuss Dispute

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A special seven-nation committee mediating the Algerian-Moroccan border dispute in the Sahara will meet again Jan. 23 in Mali, Morocco government sources have disclosed.

Construction Hit $922,839 In '63

New construction and remodeling added $922,839 worth of business, residential and industrial property in East Liverpool in 1963, off $149,093 from the $1,071,932 shown in 1962.

Last year's total was just short of the $1 million mark, which has been attained four times since World War II. Construction hit $443,308 in 1961. In 1960, the total was $1,240,669.

THE POSTWAR record of $2,118,653 was set in 1954. Another banner year was 1953, when the total hit $1,569,362.

One big project in 1963 accounted for more than a third of the year's total. It was the $360,000 job launched in June by the Potters Construction Co. for a new nurses' residence and school at City Hospital. The hospital announced the cost of the work at $641,000.

Two big projects accounted for over half of the 1962 total. They were a $356,000 permit given the Ohio Power Co. for a new substation in Klondyke and a new substation in Klondyke and a $300,000 authorization for a new Osteopathic Hospital building on W. 6th St.

As a result of the City Hospital project, June's total was the largest of the year, rising to $368,175.

THE 1963 projects called for 30 new homes, two fewer than were erected inside the city limits in 1962. In 1961, 30 new homes also were erected. Thirty-four went up in 1960. Thirty-two were built in 1959 and 25 in 1958.

However, most of East Liverpool's growth since the end of World War II has taken place outside the city limits, where building permits are not required.

Dozens of new homes were erected in residential areas around the perimeter of the city, continuing the phenomental growth in the trading area — particularly in Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

And major construction projects also were completed in the suburban area, in addition to the steady gain in new homes.

For instance, the First National Bank built a new St. Clair Branch at Calcutta. The construction cost was not announced. The Ohio Valley Gas Co. erected a new servicenter in Glenmoor at a cost of $160,000.

EXTENSION of the Freeway from the north city limits to Substation is another project that does not show in building permits. Costing over $5 million for right-of-way, engineering and construction, it still is awaiting completion, although two lanes have been opened to traffic.

Still another project that does not show on the books is the city's new vehicle storage and maintenance building on E. 2nd St. It reflects an investment of about $15,000. The incinerator department structure was completed early this year.

In 1963, April was the second biggest month for building permits, with a total of $189,000.

The 1963 total brings to $13,562,470 the value of new construction completed in East Liverpool since the end of World War II.

EAST LIVERPOOL building was shut down tight during the war by restrictions on material for private enterprise. But it got rolling again in 1944, when permits worth $4,625 were issued. Since the war still was on at the time, builders needed priorities to obtain materials.

Building gained momentum in 1945, when it hit $46,250. It shot ahead to $550,025 in 1946.

January, none; February, $5,700; March, $92,300; April, $189,000; May, $24,775; June, $368,175; July $44,230; August, $58,650; September, $58,000; October, $80,534; November, $475, and December $1,000.

BY CONTRAST, the monthly figures for 1962 show:

January, $9,175; February, $289,800; March, $15,625; April, $378,212; May, $15,425; June, $46,385; July, $12,245; August, $40,215; September, $92,375; October, $6,408; November, $14,900, and December, $1,200.

The only building permit issued in December by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office authorized Earl Tweed to erect a one-room building on E. 3rd St. at an estimated cost of $1,000.

After Bad Start

Ohio Job Scene Improved In '63

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio started 1963 as badly off as the nation as a whole in unemployment percentage—a substantial percentage — but improved its job picture immensely by year's end, according to the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Administrator Willard P. Dudley, who became BUC head early in the year under new Gov. James A. Rhodes, reported to the governor Tuesday that the state made "notable strides" in reducing the registered jobless rolls.

Dudley said Ohio's unemployed totaled 6.6 per cent of the work force, same as the nationwide percentage, last January.

But as of Tuesday, Dudley said, estimated unemployment in the state is down to 4.6 per cent, against a national rate of 5.6 per cent.

The Ohio figure is the more striking when it is considered that Dudley reports 75,600 fewer jobless workers now than in January although the total work force has increased by an estimated 66,000. That would represent more than 40,000 gain in employment.

The totals are a work force of 3,816,000 at the start of 1963, compared with an expected tally of 3,882,600 now; 253,600 out of jobs in January, compared with 178,000 estimated now.

According to Dudley, the gain from January 1962 is even more impressive. He says that at that time Ohio had 7.0 per cent unemployment, above the national rate at the time of 6.5 per cent. In fact, says Dudley, just one year ago, in December 1962, Ohio was ahead of the national 5.3 per cent jobless rate then with 5.7 per cent idle.

The drop in continued claims for unemployment compensation from January 1963's 253,600 to December 1963's 178,000 amounts to 29.8 per cent. At the same time, Dudley says, the reduction in claims load on the national level was only 16.6 per cent.

Only 3.7 per cent of the Ohio work force lacked jobs in September and 3.8 per cent in October, the top employment months of the year, according to the report. Dudley says that unemployment, up from then these past two months, will rise further because of curtailment of seasonal outdoor work such as contracting and building.

But the over-all 1964 outlook, he adds, is favorable — basing his prediction on what he calls the state's favorable tax climate for industry and the state government's drive to attract new industry.

Dudley points out that the unemployment figures include some 1½ per cent of the work force tallied as unemployed but whom experts consider "unemployable."

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Should Obey Without Arguing

Parents so often ask how to get a youngster, say from 6 to 12, to help them about the house to do what he is told or asked to do, "without an argument." For example, a mother writes from Louisiana of her children, 7 and 11. "They mind fairly well until they are asked to do something they do not like to do. I find it's hard to get them to understand it's their responsibility. Do you have any suggestions for getting children to mind without argument?"

Dr. Garry Meyers

My reply, in part. When you ask them to do something and they don't obey or positively refuse to do it, don't get angry and then say, "You must."

YOU DIDN'T order them to do whatever it was you wanted them to do. You put it to them as a request. Treat it as such, just as if you had made a request of your husband or any other adult.

But before making the request, you should be pretty sure first that they will honor it. Otherwise, don't make a request at all. Either say nothing or tell them, command them and see that they obey.

And, don't trust to argument and jawing then to make them obey. Use your hand or a substitute. Indeed it is even better not to command them unless you are pretty sure you have effective means of compelling obedience this time or to prepare them for obedience next time.

Assign a few regular jobs to each child. Don't ask him to do a regular job, tell him. Don't figure on telling him each time when he should do the job. Tell him clearly once about each chore he must do over a period of days, weeks, or months. Merely carry out enforcement measures during this period, penalties for each omission.

THEN YOU WILL rarely have occasion to make commands at all, or to jaw. And see the length and frequency of occasions when neither you or your children will annoy one another, and when, instead you can have good times together.

Besides, they will, from such experiences, develop a sense of responsibility. Remember, they won't acquire this by constant talking, explaining and arguing.

My bulletins, "Educating Your Child in Responsibility" and "How to Teach Your Child to Help at Home" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Rotary Club Has Songfest, Program To Wind Up 1963

The Rotary Club bade farewell to 1963 with a songfest and program of special music and readings at Tuesday's noon luncheon meeting in the Travelers Hotel.

Dr. C. M. Mayberry read the Ps. 90 and the background was soft organ music of "The Lord's Prayer."

The club sang "O God, Our Help In Ages Past," "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Peggy O'Neil," "Katie," "Auld Lang Syne" and closed with "God Bless America."

Mrs. Barbara Stevens of Newell, soloist, sang "My Hero" and "The Lilac Tree."

Ralph A. Finley, president, presided.

Soils Institute For 2 Counties Planned Jan. 8

LISBON — The Columbiana-Mahoning Soils and Crops Institute will be held Jan. 8 from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the First Christian Church in Salem.

Information concerning soil moisture and compaction, field crop insect control and soil types and yield potentials will be presented by authorities and researchers from the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and Ohio Soil Conservation Service, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

10 a. m. — Film, "Phosphorous fertilization."

10:30 — R. E. Treece, emtomologist at the experiment station, will speak on field crop insect control, including alfalfa weevil, leaf hopper, spittlebug and corn and pea aphid.

11:15—Berlie Schmidt, agronomist at experiment station will speak on soil moisture, including water tables, effect upon field crops and sub-soil water movement.

1:15 p.m. — Columbiana-Mahoning soil types and yield potentials by Ralph Meeker, soil scientist of the Soil Conservation Service of Columbus.

Here's How Weather Looked Across Ohio

Toledo registered 19 after dropping to 9 below over Tuesday morning. Cleveland had 21, Columbus 24, Cincinnati and Marietta 28.

A widespread snow and sleet storm, located over the southern Appalachians Tuesday afternoon, was expected to move northeast Tuesday night and Wednesday. The western boundary of the snow was expected to reach into the southeast quarter of Ohio by Wednesday morning. More than an inch of snow is indicated for southeastern Ohio, with lesser amounts in central counties.

Auto Door Damaged In Downtown Mishap

An auto door was damaged in a collision in downtown East Liverpool Tuesday at 2:12 p. m., police reported.

The mishap at W. 6th St. and Peach Alley involved a 1955 four-door sedan driven by Margaret Foden, 33, of 1038 Waterloo St. and a 1957 two-door operated by Jacqueline Bell, 26, of 517 Virginia Ave., officers said. There was damage to the right front door of the Foden car, but the Bell auto was undamaged.

The Waterloo St. woman said she was traveling east on W. 6th St. when the other auto emerged from the alley and hit her car. The East End woman said she stopped before entering the intersection, but did not see the other auto in time to avoid a collision.

ELKTON LIVESTOCK AUCTION MARKET

On behalf of the entire staff we wish all of you, the happiest, healthiest and most prosperous New Year ever, also we wish to thank everyone including the buyers, sellers, and consigners for the business they have given us in the past four years. We hope we can serve you in the future and make Elkton Auction larger for your convenience.

Our motto is a square deal and to please.

The Auction and myself will work in every possible way to make your livestock bring what its worth. Our clerks and office staff will do everything possible to please you. Our weight masters and barn boys will work to give you prompt and courteous service.

We want to thank the truck men for the wonderful job they have done in transporting the livestock to and from our Elkton sales.

We wish to thank the people, who have stands at the Elkton sales, for serving the public, weather hot, cold, rain or shine, they were always there.

We wish to thank all for the nice job of advertising for the Elkton Auction.

Any business you may give or send us will be highly appreciated.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

On this date:

In 1776, George Washington raised for the first time the flag of the United Colonies with its 13 alternate red and white stripes and the crosses of St. Andrew and St. George.

Junior Editors Quiz on ICE CREAM

ANSWER: Ice was a great luxury for the ancient peoples, especially for those who lived in warm climates. They could not make ice; but they could and did bring blocks of ice down from mountains: It is known that the Romans made water ices and that Marco Polo, coming home from his famous trip to the far east, is supposed to have brought a recipe for adding milk to water ices, making a kind of ice cream.

But it was the Italians who really started ice cream on its way. For a long time they had used ice brought down from the mountains; until, about 1550, someone discovered that if salt was added to ice it would become colder, and that milk and flavoring could be frozen by it. At first, this delicious dish was reserved by European chefs for the nobility, but the secret soon leaked out.

In America, ice cream was known in the early 1700's but its use was rare until Dolly Madison served it in the White House in 1809. After 1900 it became America's favorite dessert. The first ice cream cone appeared in 1904 at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis.

'64 Business Forecasts? One Good—One Better!

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can take your choice from two business forecasts for 1964—one good and one better.

If the late President Kennedy's $11-billion tax cut program is enacted soon, 1964 will be a banner year. National output may rise by 5 per cent or more to a record $615 billion, give or take a few billions.

If the tax bill is killed, or hangs fire in Congress until the nearly 3-year business rise runs out of gas, it is generally agreed that second-half 1964 will see a downturn.

But even if there is a late-year sag, over-all 1964 output will crack this year's record of $583 billion.

That's because the upswing—which has accelerated in recent months—seems to have enough momentum to keep the indexes rising through the first and probably the second quarter, most economists agree.

The production rate will top $600 billion a year this winter or spring, the President's Council of Economic Advisers predicts. But its chairman, Dr. Walter W. Heller, has warned that the immediate prospect is for a gradual rise—no boom, and no appreciable drop in joblessness.

Concurring with the view of private industry experts that current gains are due partly to the expectation of investors, business managers and consumers that tax cuts are coming, Heller warned:

"The disappointment of expectations if the tax cut were, unexpectedly, to falter and fall by the wayside would make a sharp difference in the 1964 outlook.

Twice in 1963 the expansion sputtered and almost faltered—in February, when personal income sagged and unemployment climbed to 6.1 per cent, and in August, when industrial output took its first and only tumble of the year.

But by Nov. 22, when the assassination of President John F. Kennedy rocked the nation and its markets, the basic strength of the economy was so visible that the sudden panic of the exchanges was quickly claimed.

Within 37 minutes after the news from Dallas that Friday, huge blocks of stocks were dumped and prices plunged 21 points on the Dow-Jones industrial averages. The New York exchange shut its doors early to halt the nosedive.

By the time trading resumed on Tuesday, buy orders had begun to pour in—encouraged by the firm grip taken by President Johnson on the affairs of state and stimulated by his pledge to 30 assembled governors that he would push the Kennedy tax cut and restrain federal spending. In one record day, the average rose 32 points.

As the year neared its close, business confidence ran high. There was evidence that many industrialists and financiers considered Johnson more pro-business than Kennedy.

1. Unemployment continues to be a drag. It still clings close to the high rate—5.5 per cent of the labor force—which has prevailed for two years.

Unless national output climbs even faster than its $30 billion-a-year pace in 1963, the rising tide of young entrants into the labor force will bar any significant improvement.

2. The increase in federal spending is scheduled to slow down. State and local government outlays will rise rapidly enough to prevent a total net decline. But government spending won't be as potent a propellant as it was last year.

3. The booming auto industry foresees its third banner sales year in a row, but cannot be expected to exceed greatly the 7 million-car mark. So also with housing—another fine year in sight, but little if any better than this year's 1.5 million new home starts.

An economy doesn't grow much when the basic industries merely hold their own, and neither the Commerce Department nor the Economic Council can identify any single major buoying force looming ahead — unless tax reduction provides fresh stimulus.

4. Industry's planned increase in spending on new plant and equipment—perhaps the most important generator of jobs and income — is disappointingly smaller than government economists had hoped. The annual survey by McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. indicates a 4-per cent rise from 1963's $39-billion rate.

Again, this would be an all-year record. But it is below the $41.2-billion annual rate achieved in the quarter just closed; unless it is stepped up, there will be a slackening of momentum.

Tavern Gets Suspension

A Lisbon area tavern has been handed a seven-day suspension but a violation against a Wellsville operator was dismissed, the State Liquor Control Commission said at Columbus.

The D-1 and D-2 permits of Norman Reynolds of Lisbon R. D. 2, doing business as The Clover Leaf, were suspended from noon Thursday to noon Jan. 9 for sale of intoxicating liquor on the premises after the legal hour on April 27.

Counsel for the department director elected to dismiss a second violation charging Reynolds with allowing consumption of intoxicating liquor after the legal hour the same date, the commission said.

A violation against James R. Ross, doing business at 356 Main St., Wellsville, accusing him of being delinquent in sales tax assessments was dismissed effective Dec. 17 after it was paid in full, the commission said.

Salineville Home Has 4 As Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ritter of Sebring and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maher of Alliance visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maher of High St., Salineville.

Miss Rita Hanley of Cleveland is visiting her father, John Hanley, of Jefferson St.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wargo and family of Summitville spent Sunday with Miss Myrtle Strabley.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Brookshire and son of Falls Church, Va., returned Sunday after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goddard. Mrs. Goddard and Miss Linda Polen returned with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pozderac of Carrollton R. D. visited here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Clapsaddle and sons visited relatives at Canton Saturday.

'Freedom' Radio Stations Eyed In Funds Drive

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The steering committee of the 19th Ecumenical Student Conference approved Tuesday a drive to raise funds to set up so-called "freedom" radio stations in the United States' Deep South.

The Stanford University delegation to the 3,000-student conference will lead the campaign for what it proposes to call "Radio Free South" after the fashion of Radio Free Europe.

The National Student Christian Federation, with headquarters in New York, sponsor of the quadrennial international conference, will accept contributions. The organization has a prior history of involvement in racial matters.

Spokesmen for the campaign say they would beam broadcasts "to an area of dense Negro population where news of the American civil rights movement is virtually unknown among Negro residents."

Trustees Of St. Clair Pay $3,789 Of Bills

St. Clair Township trustees at a yearend session Tuesday authorized payment of bills totaling $3,789.

A letter from Columbiana County Engineer Charles Snyder advised that Ohio officials have determined the trustees are responsible for the maintenance of Church St. Ext., a new 740-foot roadway near the new intersection of Routes 170 and 30.

Clash With Riot Police

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Nearly 1,500 disgruntled, restless laborers clashed with 250 riot police in Kamagasaki, a slum district in Osaka, western Japan, on New Year's Eve.

Police said two laborers were injured, one seriously, and eight were arrested. The laborers were protesting against the lack of work during the five-day yearend holidays.

Gen. Stilwell, Lt. Carpenter Jr.

Two Noted West Point Alumni Wounded In Viet

SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP)—Two distinguished alumni of West Point are among the walking wounded of yearend combat in South Viet Nam's anti-Communist war.

A paratroop officer who made sports history in 1959 as football's first "Lonesome End," Carpenter, 26, was hit by a Red guerrilla's bullet near the elbow of his right arm in a skirmish Saturday on a cane field 12 miles outside Saigon.

Stilwell, 51, son of a famous World War II general, was among four Americans slightly wounded by flying fragments when Communist ground fire ripped into their armed helicopter and shattered its plastic bubble over the Mekong River delta Monday. Stilwell, commander of all U.S. Army support units in Viet Nam, suffered cuts on his neck.

Carpenter knocked out a Communist Viet Cong position with a grenade after the one bullet punctured his arm and another slammed into the radio on his back, spinning him around and felling him.

"I lay there a few minutes and then threw a grenade at their position, about five yards away," he said. "One of the Viet Cong jumped up, but one of our people cut him down with a tommy gun. Later they found eight Viet Cong bodies in the area."

The blue-eyed, sandy-haired lieutenant, adviser to the Vietnamese airborne brigade, was one of seven Americans wounded that day. Another was killed, bringing the total American dead in South Viet Nam to 163.

It was as the "Lonesome End" of the U.S. Military Academy's football team four years ago that Carpenter made sports page headlines. He was so designated after the Army coach stationed him far to the side of the line of scrimmage in a move designed to split opposition defenses.

Carpenter enjoyed a few hours of New Year's Eve leave from the military hospital in Saigon where he is recuperating. His wife, Toni, lives in Central Valley, N.Y.

Stilwell is the son of Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, American commander in the China-Burma-India theater of World War II who died in San Francisco in 1946. Flights to observe helicopter operations are a regular part of his job.

The wounded men were treated at the Saigon airport dispensary and returned to duty.

City Girl Becomes Typist At Pentagon

Miss Patsy Seibert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Seibert, 810 Chester Ave., has started her duties as a clerk-typist with the Navy Department at the Pentagon in Washington.

Miss Seibert, 18, a 1963 graduate of East Liverpool High School, was employed at the First National Bank. She is residing in Arlington, Va.

But by Nov. 22, when the assassination of President John F. Kennedy rocked the nation and its markets, the basic strength of the economy was so visible that the sudden panic of the exchanges was quickly claimed.

Within 37 minutes after the news from Dallas that Friday, huge blocks of stocks were dumped and prices plunged 21 points on the Dow-Jones industrial averages. The New York exchange shut its doors early to halt the nosedive.

By the time trading resumed on Tuesday, buy orders had begun to pour in—encouraged by the firm grip taken by President Johnson on the affairs of state and stimulated by his pledge to 30 assembled governors that he would push the Kennedy tax cut and restrain federal spending. In one record day, the average rose 32 points.

As the year neared its close, business confidence ran high. There was evidence that many industrialists and financiers considered Johnson more probusiness than Kennedy.

1. Unemployment continues to be a drag. It still clings close to the high rate—5.5 per cent of the labor force—which has prevailed for two years.

Unless national output climbs even faster than its $30 billion-a-year pace in 1963, the rising tide of young entrants into the labor force will bar any significant improvement.

2. The increase in federal spending is scheduled to slow down. State and local government outlays will rise rapidly enough to prevent a total net decline. But government spending won't be as potent a propellant as it was last year.

3. The booming auto industry foresees its third banner sales year in a row, but cannot be expected to exceed greatly the 7 million-car mark. So also with housing—another fine year in sight, but little if any better than this year's 1.5 million new home starts.

An economy doesn't grow much when the basic industries merely hold their own, and neither the Commerce Department nor the Economic Council can identify any single major buoying force looming ahead — unless tax reduction provides fresh stimulus.

4. Industry's planned increase in spending on new plant and equipment—perhaps the most important generator of jobs and income — is disappointingly smaller than government economists had hoped. The annual survey by McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. indicates a 4-per cent rise from 1963's $39-billion rate.

Again, this would be an all-year record. But it is below the $41.2-billion annual rate achieved in the quarter just closed; unless it is stepped up, there will be a slackening of momentum.

YOUR FUTURE HEALTH DEPENDS ON YOU

With new methods for more accurate diagnosis and "miracle" drugs which can be depended upon to produce a desired result, almost every disease can be cured or lived with if you consult a physician before it is too late.

In this modern age, self-treating is often a waste of time and money, for a prescription can save you much sickness-time. And, should you have a serious condition, you endanger your future good health.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Tavern Gets Suspension

A Lisbon area tavern has been handed a seven-day suspension but a violation against a Wellsville operator was dismissed, the State Liquor Control Commission said at Columbus.

The D-1 and D-2 permits of Norman Reynolds of Lisbon R. D. 2, doing business as The Clover Leaf, were suspended from noon Thursday to noon Jan. 9 for sale of intoxicating liquor on the premises after the legal hour on April 27.

Counsel for the department director elected to dismiss a second violation charging Reynolds with allowing consumption of intoxicating liquor after the legal hour the same date, the commission said.

A violation against James R. Ross, doing business at 356 Main St., Wellsville, accusing him of being delinquent in sales tax assessments was dismissed effective Dec. 17 after it was paid in full, the commission said.

'Freedom' Radio Stations Eyed In Funds Drive

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The steering committee of the 19th Ecumenical Student Conference approved Tuesday a drive to raise funds to set up so-called "freedom" radio stations in the United States' Deep South.

The Stanford University delegation to the 3,000-student conference will lead the campaign for what it proposes to call "Radio Free South" after the fashion of Radio Free Europe.

The National Student Christian Federation, with headquarters in New York, sponsor of the quadrennial international conference, will accept contributions. The organization has a prior history of involvement in racial matters.

Spokesmen for the campaign say they would beam broadcasts "to an area of dense Negro population where news of the American civil rights movement is virtually unknown among Negro residents."

Trustees Of St. Clair Pay $3,789 Of Bills

St. Clair Township trustees at a yearend session Tuesday authorized payment of bills totaling $3,789.

A letter from Columbiana County Engineer Charles Snyder advised that Ohio officials have determined the trustees are responsible for the maintenance of Church St. Ext., a new 740-foot roadway near the new intersection of Routes 170 and 30.

Two Noted West Point Alumni Wounded In Viet

A paratroop officer who made sports history in 1959 as football's first "Lonesome End," Carpenter, 26, was hit by a Red guerrilla's bullet near the elbow of his right arm in a skirmish Saturday on a cane field 12 miles outside Saigon.

Stilwell, 51, son of a famous World War II general, was among four Americans slightly wounded by flying fragments when Communist ground fire ripped into their armed helicopter and shattered its plastic bubble over the Mekong River delta Monday. Stilwell, commander of all U.S. Army support units in Viet Nam, suffered cuts on his neck.

Carpenter knocked out a Communist Viet Cong position with a grenade after the one bullet punctured his arm and another slammed into the radio on his back, spinning him around and felling him.

"I lay there a few minutes and then threw a grenade at their position, about five yards away," he said. "One of the Viet Cong jumped up, but one of our people cut him down with a tommy gun. Later they found eight Viet Cong bodies in the area."

The blue-eyed, sandy-haired lieutenant, adviser to the Vietnamese airborne brigade, was one of seven Americans wounded that day. Another was killed, bringing the total American dead in South Viet Nam to 163.

It was as the "Lonesome End" of the U.S. Military Academy's football team four years ago that Carpenter made sports page headlines. He was so designated after the Army coach stationed him far to the side of the line of scrimmage in a move designed to split opposition defenses.

Carpenter enjoyed a few hours of New Year's Eve leave from the military hospital in Saigon where he is recuperating. His wife, Toni, lives in Central Valley, N.Y.

Stilwell is the son of Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, American commander in the China-Burma-India theater of World War II who died in San Francisco in 1946. Flights to observe helicopter operations are a regular part of his job.

City Girl Becomes Typist At Pentagon

Miss Patsy Seibert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Seibert, 810 Chester Ave., has started her duties as a clerk-typist with the Navy Department at the Pentagon in Washington.

Miss Seibert, 18, a 1963 graduate of East Liverpool High School, was employed at the First National Bank. She is residing in Arlington, Va.
